THE LEGISLATURE

PREMIER HAULTAIN'S LONG BUDGET SPEECH

The Supplementary Estimates—Provincial Government—Brand Ordinance—New Constituencies

Regina, September 12.—The Assembly held its first Saturday sittings of teh session, an indication that the end is near.

Joseph Bannerman moved that as teh present government buildings were inadequate, more commodious premises should be located at some central point in the Territories. He considered that Regina was not a suitable place and caused considerable amusement by describing it as an unhealthy place, almost all the members, including himself, having been sick during the session.

Premier Haultain moved an amendment to the effect that it was inexpedient to build new offices and an assembly hall until the question of the erection of the Territories into a province or provinces had been determined.

Minister Ross seconded and the amendment was carried, only Messrs Bannerman, Critchley, Lineham and Boucher voting against.

Mr. Magrath, one of the executive, called attention to an attack upon him by Mr. Mowat, who had insinuated that he (Mr. Magrath) had kept away from the house while the bill granting certain powers to Lethbridge was passing through its stages on account of his being a promoter of an irrigation company that would be benefitted and he might be asked inconvenient questions.

He called attention thereto because he could not allow any person to make statements of that kind.

Mr. Mowat said he had no intention of saying anything against the member personally.

Premier Haultain regreted that Mr. Mowat had not frankly withdrawn his insinuations, for which there was not a shadow of ground.

A message from the administrator bringing down the supplementary estimates was received and the estimates placed on the table.

Premier Haultain moved the second reading of a bill to incorporate the law society of the Territories. The discipline of the profession at present threw a great deal of work on the attorney general. This had been very forcibly brought to his notice by his having himself quite recently having had to sit four or five days in a court awaiting the hearing of a case in which an advocate had been suspended. He was proud of what he believed was a noble profession, but the question of discipline was an important one from a public point of view because if an advocate misbehaved himself, or kept back money he had collected, or improperly used trust moneys, there ought to be a remedy without putting the injured client to the trouble and expense of legal proceedings against the advocate. In small places too it was sometimes invidious for a lawyer to proceed against a confrere. Under the bill the proceedings would be by the benches of the Law society. Another feature in the bill was that it offered reciprocal terms to other provinces. They had no desire in the Territories to emulate British Columbia, which formed itself into a close corporation and made it as difficult as possible for members of bars to be admitted to the bar of that province. The society would have to do with the examination of students, with the fees, with the establishment of law libraries which were much wanted, and several other matters all within the limits prescribed by the bill. The bill was read a second time.

Regina, September 13.—Premier Haultain in introducing the supplementary estimates said that the total revenue for the year ending the 31st of August was $542,772, of which $372,510 had been already appropriated. The supplementary estimates to $163,975, leaving a balance of $6,000 unexpended. The first item in the estimates was for the salary of Hugh Robson, who had been appointed law clerk and deputy attorney-general at $1500 a year. The work of the department had grown to large proportions and the creation of the office was necessary. He paid a high tribute to Mr. Hobson's ability as a lawyer and his general fitness for the office.

Another new office was the deputy minister of agriculture, to which C. W. Peterson had been appointed at $1200 a year. The work of that department had grown and would continue to grow.

Speaking of the item of $6000 for the cost of the expedition to the Yukon the premier answered the criticisms of the governments policy in regard to that expedition. Continuing, Mr. Haultain stated that as a result of the expedition the sum of $122,000 had been realized as well as an additional $28,000. He announced that the house would be asked to vote $60,000 for a portion of next year's expenditures, $40,000 of which would be devoted to education. He drew attention to the fact that the money derived from Yukon was barely sufficien to meet the demands on the treasury and that without it the income would have been entirely inadequate to meet the requirements. He dwelt at length on the advisability of the Territories entering the Dominion as a province, saying that was the remedy he favored for increasing the revenue.

Mr. Haultain spoke for six hours and a half.

DIVISION

Mr. Patrick's resolution with reference to the boundaries of the Territories came up for a second reading. Mr. Mowat moved a six months' hoist, as he objected to any part of the Territories being conceded to either British Columbia or Manitoba. A vote being taken ten members voted for Mr. Mowat's amendment and eleven against it.

EDMONTON ROUTE

Mr. Tims, referring to Minister Ross' journey to the Peace river and the expenditure, said ten years ago both the federal and local governments had been petitioned for the opening of a trail from Edmonton to the Peace river. There were already three grist mills at Peace river and one at Slave lake. This showed that there was an agricultural population in the district. Since then people had gone as mining prospectors, and had changed their views and gone into farming. These people had as much right to trails as anybody. Edmonton, too, had spent a large amount of money in opening up the route, and gold was probably to be found in all the streams, a road into the district was imperatively necessary.

PUBLIC WORKS

During the budget debate Minister Ross referred to the prosperity of the Territories. Agriculture was in a prosperous condition and stock raising was in good shape. The public works department was daily increasing in importance, and they could not possibly have a better man than Mr. Dennis for the deputy commissionership. The country was now being surveyed from Moose Jaw to ascertain with a view to elaborate a scheme to reservior and conserve the water. The department had now road machines and well borers at work, and was doing its best to establish permanent public works. The improvements carried out were not for particular localities, but for the general good of the Territories.

A PLEASANT TRIP

From Calgary to Springbank, Mitford and Cochrane.

Journeyng from Calgary to Springbank for the first few miles there is not much to interest, but a look back from the crest of the first hill will repay the traveller by the splendid view to be obtained of the city, its many handsome buildings showing to great advantage.

A little further on and the ranches are encountered. Most of the ranchers were busy harvesting, and this year they have no cause to regret that so many acres are under cultivation, as the crops are all splendid, and the weather was all that could be desired for harvest operations.

Potatoes, cabbages and all kinds of vegetables are in abundance in the gardens and there is also at many country homes a rare show of flowers.

After leaving the south bank of the Elbow river the pilgrim quickly arrives at the ranches of Captain Gardner, A. C. Fraser, James D. McCreight, Christopher Duke, and several more, all of which are pleasantly situated in close proximity to the Elbow.

The Irrigation Company has a 10 foot ditch running through a part of this district into Calgary so that there is no lack of water.

Eight miles across the prairie and you strike the Jumping Pond, where everyone is busy and delighted with the hopeful outlook.

This country is more adapted for ranching than the country lately passed through, and shows every sign of prosperity. Fodder for the winter is in abundance, and a good price for cattle is confidently expected. Several cattle buyers have already visited the locality, but settlers are cautious and inclined to hold back for better prices

From Jumping Pond to Mitford you pass the White sheep ranche, where an unusually heavy crop of hay has been secured, and crossing the Bow river you are at Mitford. The place is now almost deserted, there being only a couple of families and a post office, the mail being carried from Cochrane.

Travelling west from Mitford you reach William Bell-Irvings in the extreme west of the Mitford district. It is very pleasantly located and there are a large number of heavy team horses grazing quietly on the prairie.

On the return we pass the ranche of W. D. Kerfoot, where also large herds of heavy horses are grazing and very sleek and healthy they look. From here you cross the Ghost river near Mr. Easten's ranche, which is celebrated for its milking cows. Here are found all the modern creamery appliances, and butter making is carried on on an extensive scale, the butter from this ranche finding its way to the coast. A visit when here to the Mount Royal ranche, under the management of D. P. McDonald, finds a number of men busy hay making and saving green feed. Here 900 tons of fodder had already been put up.

Gillies' ranche is close to the Ghost river, but is hidden from view until you are quite close to it. From here you go up to Angus McDonald's ranche, a distance of two and a half miles. It is situated amongst some of the most beautiful scenery in the world and carries the visitors thoughts back to the highlands of Scotland, which though boasting some lovely scenery cannot compare with this. McDonald's ranche is an ideal location, the waters running through it swarming with trout.

Crossing the railway near here and striking north you come across the ranche of Mr. Haigh, who boasts a famous kitchen garden, and who has oats nearly six feet high. Night finds the traveller at Mr. Phipp's ranche, where you are glad to put up your horse, and thankful that you have yourself dropped into such comfortable quarters. In the morning your host takes you to inspect a flock of well bred Shropshire sheep. Bidding him good morning you cross a few miles of prairie to get a good trail to Big Hill Springs, where lying in the glen you find a beautiful house the property of R. W. Cowan, where the necessary directions for reaching Cochrane are obtained.

Our route lay by the Fry ranche to the old time place Cochrane, named after Senator Cochrane. It is a nice little town with two stores, a church, an hotel, and all the requisites of modern civilization. The stores do a good business.

Close to the town, W. B. Elliott, an old resident here, has his ranche and a large herd of cattle. An irrigation ditch runs through this property.

From Cochrane it is worth while to visit the sheep and cattle ranches at Cockbaine Brothers, which are situated on the north side of the Bow. Here are found large flocks of sheep and herds of cattle, the owners having followed a pastoral occupation for many years in the north of England and are well versed in the business. The rams of the flock have been carefully selected.

The country generally seems to be in a flourishing condition and every one pleased with his location and happy and well contented with his lot.

West Calgary

As far as at present known three gentlemen have announced themselves as candidates for the representation of West Calgary. Counting the sitting member, who is not known to have retired, there are in the field Messrs. O. A. Critchley, R. B. Bennett, Jas. Muir, Q. C., and W. W. Stuart.

These gentlemen, as was their unquestioned prerogative, have stepped into the arena without waiting for any public invitation, for it is one of the characteristics of this free country that any man with political ambitions concealed about his person may appeal to an accomodating public to elevate him to the coveted seat.

With four of our fellow citizens then who to put it delicately have not been forced into the fight, but are there voluntarily and of their own sweet wills, the press has a legitimate right and a free hand to discuss them frankly and openly on their merits. The Herald has no apology to make, because none is needed, for the remarks which follow. We have only this to ask: that if any candidate feels his corns stepped on he will not foolishly jump to the conclusion that anybody wants to knife him. Three of the candidates have for years been personal friends of the writer and there is nothing on our part to prevent equally amicable relations with the fourth. But it is as public men rather than as personal friends that we have in this election to deal with candidates, and the newspaper that would let the fear of losing a friend stand in the way of its duty to its readers and the country is unworthy of the name.

Mr. Critchley, the present member, has had ample opportunities during the past four years of demonstrating his usefulness as a member. Personally he is an English gentleman and all that the word implies. He has a considerable stake in the country. He cannot be accused of lacking enterprise. He is personally popular and a young man. But we believe that even Mr. Critchley himself would admit that his forte is not politics. His disposition, his tastes, and his training all fit him for another field, in which the records of our race meetings and our polo tournaments show him to be at once successful and popular. We can't all be Admirable Crightons and we believe the majority of the electors of West Calgary, having had experience of their member in both sport and politics, would prefer that he should for the future leave the latter to men whose inclinations, oratorical ability and knowledge of public affairs perhaps better fit them for the work. Mr. Critchley has had four years of it. He has seen that it is not a bed of roses and he will probably be satisfied to relinquish the honor voluntarily, and thus do credit to his good judgment.

Mr. Critchley's earliest opponent in this contest was Mr. R. B. Bennett. Of Mr. Bennett, except in two particulars, neither of which are discreditable to him as a man, though they seriously affect his candidature, we have to speak in the most favorable terms. Mr. Bennett is a young man, he is energetic, he knows something of public questions, he is a fluent speaker and he is ambitious. It is true that his manner as a new arrival may not have been all that Westerners could desire, but that is something which time and common sense will no doubt tone down. It may also be placed to Mr. Bennett's credit that he is an ardent supporter of provincial government. But there are two things which in the judgment of the public will place Mr. Bennett out of the court. The first is that we have men of ability quite able to represent us who have been here since the infancy of the country, who have been through the ups and downs of pioneering, and whose stake has been made here. The Herald believes these men, other things being equal, should receive first consideration. The second objection is that Mr. Bennett belongs to a firm two members of which already hold representative positions, one being a senator and the other an alderman. To make the third member an M. L. A. would give the firm of Lougheed and Bennett a monopoly of the legislative business, and this, without implying anything against the gentlemen concerned, it is felt would be decidedly against the public interests and a serious bar to this gentleman's candidature. It is the rock upon which Mr. Bennett's ambitious bark will split. He would be the last man to defend monopolies, why then should he be a party to one?

Two candidates now remain, Messrs Muir and Stuart. Both are pioneers of Alberta, both have roughed it through good times and bad, and both are men of ability. Either would make a representative of whom West Calgary should have no cause to be ashamed. Mr. Muir's long training as a lawyer and his reputation as a man of caution would be of service in the Assembly, where too much loose legislation has been spilled on a long-suffering public..

Mr. Stuart's experience as a rancher, the public spirit he has displayed on many occasions, his intimate acquaintance with the settler's needs, his readiness to kick when there is a grievance to ventilate, his ability as a writer on Alberta subjects—all speak volumes in his favor. Whether the successful candidate be Mr. Stuart or Mr. Muir we believe the interests of West Calgary will be well and faithfully attended to.

Territorial Division

During the debate on Dr. Patrick's motion on the Territorial boundaries the Assembly at Regina got nearer to the provincial government question than it has at any time this session. The effect of the resolution was that the Assembly resented any interference with our territory except as regards the portions lying directly north of Manitoba and British Columbia.

The motion appears to The Herald to be inconsistent. It is willing to allow other provinces to help themselves to the Yukon and the territory north of Manitoba, but objects to cutting off any portion of Eastern Assinibioa. It is a motion which is wholly and selfishly tinctured with Eastern Assiniboia views. It implies that the people of a portion of Eastern Assiniboia care not what valuable sections are sliced off and given away so long as their particular little section is not tacked on to Manitoba.

The member for Saltcoats, whose constituency borders on Manitoba, said his people argued that their presperity would be increased by absorption with the adjoining province. This view seems to outsiders to contain common sense. There is not one iota of difference between the soil, climate, resources and industries of Eastern Assiniboia and those of Manitoba. Nature evidently intended them to be one. The objection of some people that union with Manitoba would mean additional burdens is only a fanciful objection, for the same burdens—if they can be called such—would eventually come if Eastern Assiniboia remained a part of the Territories. The whole argument in a nutshell appears to The Herald to be that Manitoba is too small, and the Territories too large, for one province. Canada is already over-governed and no friends of the country wants to see the case made worse by the creation of the Territories into two new provinces, with two lieutenant-governors, two cabinets, two sets of legislative machinery, for which somebody must pay.

With Mr. Haultain's remark that the question affected the whole of the Territories and that it would be wise to map out a symmetrical area to be the home of future provinces The Herald could have cordially agreed had he said "a province" instead of "provinces," but we believe and always will maintain that the interests of what is now called the Territories would be best served by an equalization of territory with Manitoba and the creation of the balance of the country, including Athabasca, Mackenzie and Yukon, into a new province, which with its illimitable resources would not only ultimately become in reality the baner province of the Dominion but would contain within itself the elements necessary to produce, with the aid of the Federal subsidy, all the revenue necessary to its successful development, without the smallest probability of having to resort to the direct taxation of its people.

The Calgary Creamery

The total output of butter at the Calgary creamery for the month of August has been 5,980lb, as against 4,067 during the same month of last year.

While the output has been greater than last year, the increase is due shipments of cream received from other points along the line.

Cream was received from Leduc, Lacombe, Didsbury, Okotoks, and the Calgary district.

The station at Leduc is operated on the cream separating plan, and 30 patrons sent in 57,390lb milk from which was manufactured 2,369lb butter.

Lacombe cream receiving station was patronized by 11 dairy farmers, who furnished 1,008.7 inches of cream, from which 868lb of butter was made.

One patron from Didsbury sent down during the month 258 inches of cream, making 210lb of butter.

At Okotoks a cream separating station was in operation last year, but this year it was decided to run it on the cream collecting basis. Six patrons furnished 1,320.6 inches of cream, making 1,126lb of butter.

The supply from Calgary district was not as large as it ought to have been, considering the good price realized for last season's butter. Eleven patrons brought to the creamery during August 1,505.6 inches of cream, from which 1,405lb of butter was produced.

These figures do not indicate very much enthusiasm on the part of the dairy farmers in this district, yet we must say that those who have availed themselves of the creamery are well satisfied with the results.

For the information of those who do not quite understand the term "inches of cream," we might explain that instead of being weighed, the cream furnished by the patrons is measured in pails 2ft. in diameter, each inch of cream in depth is styled a "creamery inch."

The Herald has received the London Times containing Miss Shaw's first Canadian letter. It is such a letter as those who have met this talented journalist would be led to expect—able, entertaining, well informed and broad of view. Its length—over four columns—precludes our reproducing it whole, but a synopsis will be given.

The Western Canadian Press Association proposes to hold an excursion to Mexico on or about Jaunary 15th next.

HARVEY ON PROHIBITION

To the Editor of The Herald:

Sir: The undersigned had the privilege of being one of a few persons who heard a lecture delivered in the Alberta Music Hall last evening by Rev. Will Harvey. Having gone in search of information and with a mind open to conviction the disappointment was great.

The lecturer professed to argue the point "does prohibition prohibit" and instead of tackling the question his time was fully occupied in abuse of his opponents—so called—and a tirade against liquor dealers, interluding the same with most improbable statements relating to the "glorious success" (?) of the prohibition law in Maine, and the use of a few weak arguments comparing the moderate use of stimulants to the breaking of the whole decalogue.

Judging from his pronunciation his knowledge of classics is limited.

The cause for which he strives is worthy of a more able and intellectual advocate.

We may well tremble for the success of a prohibitory law if left to the tender mercies of such zealots.

Yours truly,
(MISS) F. C. STEELE.

Calgary, September 17th, 1898.

PURITAN DAMES.

We hear a great deal these days of our puritan forefathers, but little concerning the wives and mothers who landed at Plymouth Rock and founded that colony which was destined to play such a large part in our history.

In 1621 Elder Cushman wrote from Plymouth that he "would not advise any one to come here who were not content to spend their time, labors and endeavors for the benefit of those who shall come after, quitely contenting themselves with such hardships and difficulties as shall fall upon them." What self-renunciation and heroic purpose was this! They drowned witches to be sure, but that was no part of their puritanism. It is to the puritan women we owe so much for that spirit in our people which gives them the fortitude to endure hardship and stake life and fortune for their convictions.

The American women of to-day have the spirit of their puritan mothers, but their constitutions are not rugged or able to endure half the hardships of these New England ancestors. Very often they are rundown with weaknesses and irregularities peculiar to their sex, and the constant drain upon their vitality makes them chronic invalids. Many women hesitate to go to their family physician, because they dread the local examinations so generally insisted upon by practitioners.

Such women should write Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., giving a full description of their symptoms, history, etc., so that he can give them the best possible medical advice. If Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription seems to suit the case the Doctor will say so. If not, then he will give medical advice which will put such women on the solid road to recovery and health.

Sixty tons of ore from the Silver Cup was shipped last week to the Hall mines at Nelson.

"Grandpapa," said Kathleen, very seriously, "I want to ask your advice." "Yes darling, what is it?" asked the old gentleman. "I want to know what you think it will be best to give me on my birthday."

DR. A. W. CHASE LECTURING AT ANN ARBOR, MICH.

THE MEDICAL PROFESSION

Recommends Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment.

Dr. C. M. Harlan, writing in the American Journal of Health, of Feburary 19, says:—

"Among the proprietary medicines deserving recognition is 'Dr. Chase's Ointment,' compounded by THE DR. A. W. CHASE MEDICINE CO., Buffalo, N. Y., and Edmanson, Bates Co., Toronto, Ont., as a remedy for sores, eruptions, and skin diseases of all kinds, for which it has been used with marked success, and has effected remarkable cures in many obstinate cases which seemed to baffle the skilful medical attendant. The results were most favourable, proving the value of 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' as a curative agent in the diseases named. The manufacturers of the remedy are well-known as experienced pharmacists, careful and reliable, in addition to which we have made full examination, and find the article to be all that is claimed for it.

"It is not the practice of the medical profession to indorse indiscriminately the use of proprietary medicines, but while we condemn the bad and worthless, we are still more ready to indorse and recommend the remedy deserving the recognition.

"Neither the physician nor the responsible Journal of Health now refuses to acknowledge the claims of such proprietary remedies as 'Dr. Chase's Ointment,' which prove their virtues by curing where other agencies have failed.

"We know that 'Dr. Chase's Ointment' meets all requisitions of the highest standard of worth, that it will be held in high esteem wherever it is used, and consequently we indorse it to every reader."

C. M. HARLAN, M. D.

Election Card.

To the Electors of East Calgary Electoral District:

GENTLEMEN: At the request of numerous electors I have agreed to allow myself to be nominated as a candidate for the East Calgary Electoral District of the North West Territories as a representative for the Legislative Assembly at the General Election expected to be held in October or November next, and I take the earliest opportunity of placing my platform before the electorate, soliciting their votes and interest on my behalf.

I am thoroughly opposed to the system of legislation carried on at Regina at present, which however suitable to Eastern Assiniboia, is altogether antagonistic to the welfare of Alberta.

If elected as your representative I will use my best efforts to secure provincial autonomy for Alberta, including Western Assiniboia and Athabasca, believing that the ranching and mixed farming interests lying between the third meridian and British Columbia require to be governed by a separate legislature.

I shall also endeavor to have ordinances passed removing the grievances under which Alberta suffers by reason of the new brand and statute labor laws in particular.

The school ordinance still requires much revision and no effort will be wanting on my part to promote revision of those ordinances and several others which press against the interests of the farmers and merchants of Alberta.

I will not be a silent party to the domination of Eastern Assiniboia members over those of Alberta and disapproving as I do of an autocratic executive, I will support no ministry that attempts to crush the interests of Alberta.

While it is my desire to see every elector previous to the election it may not be possible to achieve the results in such a scattered consituency, but being already well known to most of you I feel no hesitation in seeking your suffrages and asking you for your generous support as a candidate who has no personal axe to grind and whose only desire is to see Alberta governed by consistent laws, which will allow the agricultural and mineral wealth of the country to be quickly developed in the common interests of the community. Faithfully yours,

S. J. CLARKE.

Calgary, Sept. 13, 1898. tf

Election Notice

To the Electors of East Calgary Electoral District,

GENTLEMEN: As it seems to be the desire of many that I should become a candidate for legislative honors. I have decided to offer myself at the coming Territorial elections, and now ask you for your votes and influence. If I should have the honor of being elected as your representative, it is my purpose to promote such measures as will be conducive to the welfare of the community, and do my best to restore and uphold the prestige and credit which Calgary should have in the legislature of our country.

Yours respectfully,
JAMES REILLY.

Election Card.

To the Electors of the West Calgary Electoral District:

GENTLEMEN: As to many of the electors of the district it may not be known that I am in the field seeking your suffrages at the approaching general elections for the Territories, I beg to announce that I am a candidate for your votes in the West Calgary District and although I shall endeavor by personal interviews and public meetings to lay my views before you and urge my claims to your votes, I must ask such of you as believe me to be a fit person to represent you in the Legislative Assembly to use your influence in all lawful ways to secure my election.

Your obedient servant,
JAMES MUIR.

Calgary September 9th 1898.

Election Notice

To the Electors of West Calgary:

At the request of a number of electors from the city and surrounding country I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for election to the Legislative Assembly, in the forth coming election and respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

sep9tf W. W. STUART.

Requisition.

To R. A. Wallace, Rancher, High River, Alberta:

SIR: We the undersigned duly qualified electors of High River district, having full confidence in your ability and integrity, request you to stand as a candidate in the approaching election in this district for member of the Legislative Assembly of the North West Territories, and in the event of your contesting the election we hereby pledge ourselves to support you:

O Thorburn, E Quinn, Jno Irvine, Jno. Greenfield, Davisburg; J W Thomson, H Haus, J Suitor, Wm Allen, Gladys; Jno Paterson, Robt McLaren, Wm Brown, Jas Eberly, A McDougall, Okotoks; W C McDougall, John Shaw, R H Robertson, Jas Glendenning, Jasper Smith, D M Murray, Robt Findlay, High River; Angus MacIntosh, D McNeil, F C Austin, J H Dewar, De Winton; and 127 others.

To the Above Named Electors and Others:

I wish to thank you for the confidence you have placed in me also to say that I will accept your request to stand as a candidate at the coming elections for the Legislative assembly of the North West Territories and that I will endeavor to meet as many of the electors as possible before polling day takes place.

Faithfully yours,
R. A. WALLACE.

Election Notice

To the Electocs of the High River Electoral District:

GENTLEMEN: Having been asked by a number of the electors to offer myself as a candidate for this district at the forthcoming election for the Legislative Assembly of the Territories, I have decided to do so and beg to announce myself as a candidate.

I have been a resident in this part of Alberta for a number of years and my interests are bound up with the stock and agricultural progress of this country. I shall endeavor to see as many of the electors as possible before the election and must ask my friends throughout the district to assist me with their votes and influence.

Yours faithfully,
WALTER C. SKRINE.

THURSDAY'S NEWS

Chicken shooting season opens today.

Rev. R. M. Webb-Peploe, Mrs Webb-Peploe and child arrived from England yesterday.

Miss Lily Moorhouse, of Shetland, Ontario, arrived on Sunday morning to visit her brothers, F. and O. Moorhouse, of Calgary.

Archie Grant, who is representing a well known hardware firm on the road, is in town today after three months' absence. He leaves again tonight.

A special meeting of Calgary city council was held yesterday afternoon in the town hall when a resolution to send $200 for the relief of the sufferers of the late New Westminster fire was carried.

The premises lately occupied by J. Irwin, on Stephen avenue, are being fixed up by W. McLean for Messrs Kerr & Tarrant, tailors. The front will be of Calgary stone, and will have two large show windows with commodious work shops and show rooms in the rear. Kerr & Tarrant take possession on the 1st of October.

A letter dated the 20th of August, at Dawson, to a gentleman here, gives news of R. J. Jephson, Billy Jones and Uncle Belcher, who left here in April for Dawson. R. J. Jephson was very sick for a fortnight, but seems quite recovered and was at the date of the letter out at Bonanza. Belcher is on the gold commissioner's staff. Jones after arriving at Dawson has been ever since at the head of the Stewart river and the McQuestion. The party have a cabin on the hill at Dawson and are fixed for the winter. Dawson is still at present, but every one predicts that the winter will bring busy times.

FRIDAY'S NEWS

Horace Hickling, Cardstairs, is in the city today.

Rev. R. M. Webb-Peploe left for Sheep Creek today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. King, Winnipeg, arrived from the east this morning.

C. J. Reach, general merchant of Macleod, arrived in the city last night.

Several chicken shooting parties were out yesterday and had excellent sport.

M. Boice, teacher in the High school, Calgary, has been removed to te hospital suffering from typhoid fever.

Mrs. H. W. Newlands and Mrs. J. L. Johnson arrived from Edmonton last night and went on to Banff this morning.

J. de Sousa, accountant of the Hudson's Bay Company, Calgary branch, left this morning on temporary transfer to the company's office at Edmonton.

W. C. Rhodes, of the Molson's Bank, and Harry Proctor, of Dewdney, bagged 20 brace of chicken at Okotoks yesterday. Mr. Rhodes will return home on Saturday night.

A ghastly joke was perpetrated after the New Westminster fire. Some wretch put up a black flag with skull and crossbones on it on the top of the central schoolhouse.

Miss Flora L. Shaw, of The Times, returned from Winnipeg this morning and went north with Commissioner Chipman. Miss Shaw will go as far as Athabasca Landing.

There is a good story told of a Herefordshire farmer. A few nights ago he went home late and drank a pint of yeast in mistake for buttermilk. He rose three hours earlier than usual next morning.

Several parties took advantage of the 14th to enjoy the last day of the season for trout fishing. Messrs. Manarey, Comer, Prince, Irvine, Miquelon, Kelly, Smith and Young drove 35 miles to the north fork of Fish Creek, caught about 500 trout and drove back at night. The fish caught were all small, the big trout being slow to bite owing to the nearness of the spawning season.

Royal arrivals: R. A. Wallace, High River; H. F. Dennehy, Dunbow; A. J. McLean, Macleod; S. H. McCullough, Albert Kerr, H. McBride, Davisburg; J.W.McAbee, Millarville; W. B. Campbell, Sheep Creek; B. G. Walker, Elbow River; Robt. Lane, Brandon; C. Wesley Price, Windsor; A. J. McDonald, Big Hill Creek; M.B. Steine, Montreal; R. V. Bellamy, T.V. Cameron and wife, Edmonton; J.Jay Sellers, Olds; Jno. Doheny, Wardner, B. C.; M. McCarthy, Wardner; J. T. Ryan, Cranbrook, Louis Vermette, Fernie; J. A. Herdman, Macleod; S. J. Curry, Slocan; Eugene Brown, Michigan; T. B. Hill, Vancouver; C. C. McKay, Fort Selkirk.

SATURDAY'S NEWS

The Jewish New Year commences today.

The Assembly is expected to prorogue today.

The Herald acknowledges the receipt of $3 from Mr. and Mrs. Amos Speight towards the relief of the New Westminster fire sufferers.

Brakeman Bruce, whose hand was smashed in a recent accident, is doing well. His friends will be glad to hear that the hand will be saved.

Geo. H. Ham, the well known ex-journalist, now chief of the C. P. R. immigration department, arrived from the east and went north yesterday morning.

If there are sufficient applications to justify the expense and trouble, civil service examinations will be held in Calgary and in Regina on November 8.

H. W. Newlands, inspector of land titles office will put in a month at Calgary inspecting the office and relieving the registrar and his assistant during their holidays.

Conductor Corey's little girl while jumping from a fence on Thursday broke her arm between the wrist and elbow. The limb was set by Dr. Mackid and the little patient is doing well.

Mrs. Robinson, a daughter of Mrs. Amos Speight, of Calgary, was a resident of New Westminster at the time of the fire, but fortunately lived just beyond the zone of the fire and so escaped.

The country is just now looking its prettiest. The foliage is assuming the yellow hues of autumn, the long prairie grass has turned brown, the trails are good, the rivers clear and the weather perfect.

Rev. Mr. Betts, formerly of Calgary, was one of the many who lost their all in the New Westminster fire. He was at Toronto attending the Quatrennial conference when the fire occurred. His church, parsonage and valuable library of books were totally destroyed.

The Moosomin town council lately passed a bylaw regulating the bicycle traffic on the streets, andt amongs other things it was ordered that each machine should after dark carry a bell. Nothing was specified as to the kind of bell so the boys provided themselves with cow bells and rode a noisy procession through the town.

Mr. Prince, who has a large farm near Eau Claire, Wisconsin, is in the city spending a few days with his brother P. A. Prince, president of the Eau Claire Lumber Co., and the Calgary Irrigation Co. Mr. Prince came to Alberta as an immigration delegate and has been through the Edmonton country. His son Jno. E. Prince, is on the Prince-Ker ranche north east of Calgary.

Alberta arrival Friday: J. A. Telford, Jas. Drewe, Wm. Purvis, Harry Leadley, C. C. Chipman, E.K.Beeston, G.A.Mantle, Jno. Calder, W. C. King and wife, Winnipeg; F. Houghton, Glenbow Ranche; G. E. T. Cauley, S. Hushworth, Hamilton; G. Campbell, Truro; Mrs. Newlands, Regina; Mrs. J. L. Johnson, Edmonton; Geo. S. Killaway, C. J. Reach, Macleod; R. L. Gaetz, Red Deer; E. J. Jackson, Edmonton; W. H. McKee, Brooklyn; L. C. Fulmer, Golden; Miss Hobbes, Donald; John Philips, Hors Creek; Armytage Moore, Dublin; Miss Flora Shaw, London, England.

JUMPING POND

Jumping Pond, September 14.—E. McKenzie Grieve returned from Calgary after being defeated in the golf match by J. H. Wilson, of the Imperial bank. Mr. Wilson had a great advantage in this match over Mr. Grieve in his knowledge of the green, as he had been practicing there for some time. Mr. Grieve besides being out of practice, not having had a club in his hands for over two years, found considerable difficulty in procuring clubs at all to play the match with. It is whispered here that if the backers of Mr. Wilson would like to try another game at double the stakes, that Jumping Pond and Elbow River men would be glad to wait upon them and make the necessary arrangements.

On account of the recent destructive fire at New Westminser, parcels of money, clothing or supplies, for the relief of fire sufferers, consigned to the relief committee, New Westminster, will be carried free by the Dominion express company.

Paine's Celery Compound a Safe Medicine For Every Home.

A FAMILY FRIEND IN TIMES OF SICKNESS

One ailing, sick or diseased member of a family will mar and distrurb the happiness of the entire household. In some homes, the breadwinner, or father is laid low, or it may be the mother, that ever-present guardian angel is owing to illness unable to look after the wants and comforts of her little ones. Sometimes a son or daughter is robbed of buoyant spirits and healthful youth, and becomes a prey to disease and suffering.

Any such case as we have mentioned will make its influences felt amongst those most deeply interested. The physician is called in to fight against disease, and long weary days are passed with perhaps little benefit to the sick one, and increasing anxiety and tremendous cost to the family in moderate circumstances.

When sickness comes to a family that make Paine's Celery Componud their chosen medicine, how different the situation! There is always perfect confidence of success and cure, and a surety that no heavy doctor's bills will be forthcoming.

If the patient is suffering from kidney or liver troubles, rheumatism, neuralgia, stomach ailments or blood diseases, Paine's Celery Compound is far more efficacious and lifegiving than anything else on earth. The sick ones soon get strong and well, and feel the life current once more flowing joyously through every vein. Paine's Celery Compound as a family medicine is a Heaven-sent blessing to our people.

GOLF MATCH

There was considerable animation on the links of the Calgary Golf club on Tuesday afternoon between 4 and 5 o'clock, the occasion being a match between Mr. J. H. Wilson, of the Imperial Bank, Calgary, and Mr. Mackenzie Grieve, who hails from out of town. The match had been arranged by friends of the contestants, who had expressed their faith in the superiority of the respective players to the extent of $100 a side. The fact that there was $200 at stake, that the playing of Mr. Grieve was practically an unknown quantity, and that Mr. Wilson has a host of friends, and was known to be without question the best player on the Calgary links brought together a great many people, some of whom had never seen a game of golf before, all of whom either in carriages, bicycles or on foot followed the players as absorbed and interested spectators during the hour and a quarter of play. As the game of golf may be unfamiliar to many we may say that it consists in driving a ball into a series of holes situated at unequal distances from each other in an irregular course such that the last hole is near the starting point; the object being of course to do this in the fewest number of strokes possible. When the novice takes about three strokes to hit his ball, and when he does hit it finds that he sends the clod of earth adjacent to the ball farther than the ball itself, and then sees the old player take one nice clean stroke and send his ball 200 yards on the way, he concludes there is something in the way it is done. The regular course or links consists of 18 holes and consequently it is necessary to make the circuit of the Calgary links of nine holes twice for a match game.

The ordinary game on the Calgary links is what is known in the rules of play as medal play by which the player who makes the circuit in a fewer number of strokes than his opponent wins, but for match play such as the game on Tuesday the rules are different, and it is holes instead of strokes that count, the player making the hole in the fewer number of strokes counting the point.

The game started promptly at 4 o'clock as announced and the first hole went to Mr. Grieve with four strokes, the second hole was divided each player making it in four strokes, and consequently counted for neither, the third hole was a repetition of the second, leaving Mr. Grieve still one up. The fourth hole, however, Mr. Wilson won making the hole with a nice pretty put on his fifth stroke, thus evening the score, and then came the long hole which likewise went to Mr. Wilson in five strokes, making him now one up. Then came the frog pond, the bete noir of the poor player, who has lost more balls and temper in it than he cares to think of. It however seemed to have no terrors for either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Grieve, each of whom drove well over the bank on the opposite side of the pond, Mr. Wilson eventually winning the hole with four strokes, making him two up, the score being three to one. The next hole also went to Mr. Wilson in five strokes. The eight hole should have gone to Mr. Grieve. He made a splendid drive from the teeing ground landing on the green only a few feet from the hole, while it took Mr. Wilson two strokes to get on the green and then his lie was not as good as Mr. Grieve's, but Mr. Grieve apparently from nervousness, failed to hole out on his third stroke and the hole was divided at four strokes each. The ninth hole went to Mr. Grieve with four strokes and the circuit had been completed once. The time taken being only 35 minutes, indicative of a pretty fast game.

At the beginning of the second round Mr. Wilson was two holes up, the score being Wilson four, Grieve two. On the second round of the first hole Mr. Wilson turned the tables on Mr. Grieve, winning the hole with five strokes. Mr. Grieve, however, took the next hole in four strokes, and the third was divided at the same number. At the fourth hole Mr. Grieve drove over the bank as in the first round and lost the hole to Mr. Wilson, who made it in four.

Now for the long hole. Again Mr. Wilson drove off well. Mr. Grieve not being so well acquainted with the course got in to the long grass and with bad lies made two or three poor drives, putting himself practically out of the contest for this hole and consequently for the match, for this hole going to Mr. Wilson made him 4 up with only 4 to go, so that he had only to win one more hole to win the match. Mr. Wilson made a fine drive over the pond, landing quite close to the green. Mr. Grieve in his turn drove into the pond. It looked then as though the match was over for lost ball is lost hole, but the ball didn't go in far and was got out and at the next attempt Mr. Grieve made an even better drive than Mr. Wilson, and landed several yards ahead of him, but with the handicap of two strokes by the drop in the water, there was not much chance for him and Mr. Wilson on his fifth stroke won the hole and consequently the match.

There was some very pretty play during the match. Mr. Wilson making two or three remarkably good puts while Mr. Grieve rather excelled in his driving, due perhaps somewhat to the fact that he used his driver while Mr. Wilson confined himself to his cleek, and his driving, while not so far was more uniform. On several occasions Mr. Wilson's greater knowledge of the ground stood him in good stead and no doubt won him more than one hole, while Mr. Grieve, who had never been on the links before yesterday also showed lack of practice, but from the style of his play it was no surprize to hear that he is an ex-champion of Wales. We understand that Mr. Grieve intends joining the Calgary club and we predict that before the season is over Mr. Wilson will have to look well to his laurels if he intends to keep them.

The club, though in existence only a few weeks is in a quite flourishing condition, with a membership of about 40. They have a very snug little club house and on Saturday afternoons they are at home to their friends. It is understood that a handicap tournament is about to be held and The Herald is asked to announce that a meeting of the members will be held next Saturday afternoon at the club house at 4 o'clock to make arrangements for same, and it is requested that as many members as possible should be present.

"Westward"

Canada has seldom been championed by an abler pen than that of Miss Flora Shaw, the most distinguished woman in her profession in the Old World. The fact that The Times' colonial editor has recently visited Calgary and is at present investigating the resources of Northern Alberta will give her letters a local interest which will ensure their being eagerly read. Miss Shaw's first letter, written at Lake Bennett, on the way to Dawson City, is an excellent review of Canada's position today, based, not on a casual trip over the Canadian Pacific Railway, but on knowledge as comprehensive as it is correct. The letter entertainingly deals with the four great principal divisions of Canadian life—agricultural and pastoral, mineral and forest.

"Canada at Midsummer," Miss Shaw commences, "may well repudiate the title of 'Our Lady of the Snows.' It would be difficult to imagine a more complete presentment of summer than is offered in the first week of July by the territory which stretches from the Atlantic to the Pacific across the southern border of the Dominion. The impression produced by an unbroken railway journey of six days and nights from coast to coast is of a land of clover and roses, of odorous woods and ripening crops, the continuity of which is only interrupted by noble waterways and by mountain ranges of magnificent proportions.

"Taken as a whole such a journey is an instructive prelude to any attempt to become better acquainted with the conditions of contemporary development in Canada. The line described by it passes through the four great sections of country upon which the four principal divisions of Canadian life are based. The primal elements out of which the history of the Dominion has grown are, as it were, exposed to view, and when the direction of progress is from east to west the historic order of precedence is suggestively maintained. It is from east to west that the civilization of a handful of French and English settlers has been carried across the continent."

After touching on the small farming of the French habitant, which is described as "rather picturesque than scientific," Miss Shaw continues:

"While the traveller sleeps the train carries him on, passing in the night into a highly mineralized country of totally different aspect from that of the farm lands of the east, and leaving behind, unseen among other mining centres, the largest nickel deposits in the world, which were accidentally discovered at Sudbury in the course of tunnelling for the passage of the Canadian Pacific Railway. For the greater part of two days the way lies through a wild region of forest and rock and lake, practically valuable for the great mineral wealth of copper and iron, silver and gold, which it contains, and for the lumber and fishing industries to which its woods and waters give rise. It is towards the western extremity of this region that the late gold discoveries of Western Ontario have been made. Nor is it perhaps generally appreciated in estimating the importance of the lumber and fishing industries that the total value of the exports of Canadian fisheries and forests has hitherto amounted to just double the value of her minerals. This estimate, it should be said, is based on figures given only up to the end of 1896, and therefore leaves out of count the gold discoveries of the last two years.

But it is not by what it contains of commercial value that this district exercises its greatest attraction. Over silver and copper and gold districts in all but a few broken spots the primeval forest still stretches its dark robe from the north. Old fur trading stations of the Hudson's Bay Company are passed at intervals, and Indian legends hang about the country. Nothing in this district is more beautiful than the variety and grandeur of the waterways. Rivers, rivulets, waterfalls and lakes succeed each other with endless charm. Their proportions are framed upon every scale, from lily bearing rock pools and rivers no broader than a mountain trout stream to the inland sea of Lake Superior, which covers an expanse of 30,000 square miles, and the magnificent volume of island studded rivers whose channels, moulded by the melting of continental snows, open long vistas into the interior."

Coming to the Territories, after speaking of the grain fields of Manitoba Miss Shaw says: "The prairie country is the home of the pastoral industry. Ranches are dotted over it, and as the rolling ground sweeps upward to the base of the Rocky Mountains the best horse breeding farms, and the largest herds of sheep and cattle in the country are to be found. A year or two ago there was no dairying industry in the province. Now under the inspiration of the dairy commission of the Dominion government, the industry has been adopted at various points, and a very considerable export of butter and cheese has been the profitable result. The whole of this country is, like the wheat country, favorably affected by the expansion of the local market in British Columbia and the Yukon. Prices are better than they were, and a brisk demand has arisen for poultry and all the lesser products of the farm. The overland routes by Edmonton and Ashcroft to the Yukon run through this district, and if any satisfactory method of communication could be established the North West Territories would become with Manitoba the natural base of food supply to the mining districts of the north. Even with the necessity for sending produce over the line of the Canadian Pacific Railway to the coast the effect of the mining development is already clearly preceptible in the generally increased prosperity of the food producing centres. The further west the traveller goes the more is the potenial value appreciated of the mineral resources of the country, which are now in process of being opened up. When the first peaks of the Rocky Mountains are perceived he realizes that he has reached the borders of a district of which the future must in a great measure determine the future of at least one half of the Dominion. The table land of the prairies, which rises from a height above the sea of 700 feet at Winnipeg to 4,000 feet in the pastoral uplands of Calgary and Morley, comes definitely to an end at the base of the Rocky Mountains about 600 miles from the Pacific coast."

Following a vivid account of the mountains comes a paragraph dealing with mining: "Throughout the extent of this country, which is topographically a continuation of the California and Montana ranges of the United States, the presence of valuable minerals has been demonstrated at so many points as to almost constitute an assurance that rich metalliferous beds run through it from end to end. At its southern extremity are the rich mining fields of Kootenay; from the northern extremities of its hills flow the Klondike and other gold bearing rivers of the Yukon district. Between the two the gold fields of Cassiar, Cariboo and other places, of which the unfamiliar names ring strangely upon English ears have shown, even under the rough conditions in which the surface has been scratched, that the belt of precious metal proved to exist at either end is not altogether absent wherever it is sought for with knowledge and experience in the middle. Beds of coal, iron, copper and other commercial ores have been shewn to exist over enormous areas. In addition to the valuable coal fields of the coast the coal beds of the Rocky Mountains range alone are said to have an area of upwards of 15,000 square miles. Silver, of which the great wealth in the Slocan fields has long been known, is also widely spread. There is hardly a known mineral, with the exception of some of the precious gems, of which traces have not been found. The hardships incurred in prospecting a country so rugged, and the overwhelming expense of mining in regular form without modern means of transportation have rendered the development of the wealth of the district on any wide scale impossible until within the last few years. As in the interior of South Africa, so here treasure has lain from prehistoric ages undisturbed, guarded by the natural difficulties of approach. None the less are the apparently baren mountain flanks pregnant with gold, and the wild valleys rich with various forms of mineral deposit."

Concluding her excellent letter with more about British Columbia, the C. P. R., and other topics, Miss Shaw writes: "The short period of years which elapsed since then has sufficed to indicate the immense value to the Canadian people of the means of closer intercourse which it has supplied to them. Only since then have the four natural divisions of the country been able to work together as part of a great industrial whole. Federation placed before them the ideal of union. The construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway was the first practical step towards the realization of the ideal. So profound is the modification of the conditions of life in Canada, which has been made by the possession of easy means of communication through the continent, that the Dominion as it exists today may without exaggeration be said to be only 12 years old. The problems which it offers for consideration are new problems, and the nature of the development which is to be looked for in the future cannot be fairly estimated by any measure of the past."

It is stated on excellent authority that the scheme for a French Canadian fast mail service has collapsed, owing to the inability of the French promoters to command sufficient support. It will be remembered that the scheme was set on foot immediately after the visit to Paris last year of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who promised support in the way of an annual subsidy. Regarding the long promised service between England and the Dominion our English correspondent writes that he is in a position to state that the Mesrs. Allan are now in direct correspondence with the Dominion government with a view of taking over the contract which was granted to a Newcastle firm, and which the latter has been unable to carry out.

After the Battle

Montreal Gazette: Spain's position may well be a source of anxiety to her statesmen. Shorn of the last remnant of a heritage which she claimed as a gift of the church itself, she has reached a point of national humiliation the depth of which may be judged by the height from which she has descended. There is, indeed, a consolation which to a proud people gives a certain moral support. To decline a challenge was ever to the Spaniard the act of a craven, even when the challenger had every advantage. "Desa flamento me ha hecho" (he has challenged me), is, in the ancient ballad justification for any indiscretion of accepted combat. True to old traditions the Sagasta government did not wait till the defi of the United States had been formally delivered before they announced their readiness to appeal to the sword and await the issue. They knew, as all the world knew, that they had been caught unprepared; that wealth, population, armed strength, ships, were on the side of the foe; that he was fresh and sound from long prosperity and peace, whereas in the two main points of conflict, their forces were exhausted from persistent warfare, waged with disadvantage in which alien sympathy and help to the rebels were a conspicuous element. Destiny, indeed, could hardly have treated them worse in fixing an hour for a life and death struggle. Had the voice of wordly wisdom been heard and heeded, they would have temporized, instead of rushing with such rashness into a war that could, they felt, have but one issue. So contagious is boldness that for a time the onlookers fancied the Spaniards must have some unsuspected reserve of strength, and that, even if their enemy proved the eventual victors, their triumph would be dearly purchased by preceding sanguinary discomfiture, and it was on the sea some of the prophets looked for this preliminary punishment of the aggressors. Never were forecasts rendered so absurd by the event. Just one comfort was left to Hispania mourning for her sons. They did not flinch from the deadly test but met their stronger foes with ancestral valor. Spain may have lost the art of winning victories but the heart that upheld her in her combats with the trained champions of three continents still sends the blood through her veins. It may not have kept pace with the march of progress, then Spaniards still cultvate one ambition, which, when allied with patriotism, is not without its beauty. "Paraganor honra y no para ser cobardes"—thus it was worded in the old chivalrous days. "To win honors and not to play the coward"—so long as a nation (and it was the same nation that produced Cervantes) is true to such a motto, it cannot have entirely lost self-respect. In one sense, indeed, it may be that Spain has been a gainer by the war, for whether they fought them by land or sea, the soldiers and sailors of the United States have confessed that in the Spaniards they had valiant foes, worthy of the finest warlike steel. As men—if not as statesmen and administrators—the Spaniards have a popularity in the United States that is in singular contrast to the character that was ascribed to them before the war.

But Spain cannot live long on a reputation for warlike prowess. All the valor of captain and seamen did not save either Pacific or Atlantic fleet from terrible destruction. Impetuous and stubborn alor is a grand thing to contemplate. It shields defeat from the taunts that sting. But when it yields nothing but sacrifice of life and waste of means our, admiration is shaded by doubt. We still admire, it is true. But at the same time we feel a certain scorn for the ineptitudes—whatever or wherever they be—that can turn brave men to no better use. Unless Spain utilizes the lessons of the war, the only solace in which she prides herself—that "all is lost but honor"—the saying was attributed to a captive that Spain knew well—the first French king that lives on the pages of our own history—will stand her in little practical stead. She is face to face at this moment with great dangers, but they are internal. She may find herself engaged in a struggle even worse than that from which she has just emerged—a civil war with enemies that ought to be her friends, but are not even the friends of each other. Even if he escapes the threatened disaster she will have to pass through an ordeal such as few nations have had to meet, before she attains the footing of a strong and progressive country. Still, she has no need to despair. She was worse off before, worse off since, she reached the zenith of her power in the 15th century. Out of centuries of sanguinary war she at last grew into the Spain we know. The might she gained afterwards has fallen away from her. But she has still an empire that is worth defending, developing and adorning, and the world will watch with interest and not without sympathy for the use she will make of such opportunities as she has left.

Lord Lonsdale who is known to many of our readers, is again to be the guest of Emperor William at the German military manoeuvre. His lordship has practically a standing invitation to the great annual spectacle, in which his friend the kaiser takes such pride and delight, and he certainly has every encouragement to take advantage of it, for no other Englishman of equal rank is treated with such conideration by the imperial authorities. It has been a mutual disappointment to the emperor and his English friend, that circumstances still fresh in the public mind have precluded a recent change of hospitalities which, a few years ago occupied so much attention. Lord Lonsdale is always welcome in Germany, but since the "Kruger telegram" the kaiser has not been able to summon up courage to face the "stony British stare."

Omdurman

Telegram: The British people the world over can be pardoned for rejoicing at the magnificent victory of Sir Herbert Kitchener over the Mahdi at Omdurman. Gordon is now avenged. The desertion and death of General Gordon and the subsequent surrender of the Soudan to the Mahdist hordes are humiliations under which the British people have chafed for years. When the Salisbury government attained a settled tenure of power, it determined to reverse the ignominious policy of scuttle pursued by Mr. Gladstone. It determined upon the reconquest of the Soudan, quietly and deliberately it made its preparations. The expedition was placed in charge of Sir Herbert Kitchener, who, during the past two years has been cautiously but determinedly making himself master of the Nile valley. His tactics have been thorough and scientific. They have had nothing in common with those which sent Hicks Pasha with an entirely inadequate force, and with no base of supplies, to be cut to pieces in the desert; nor with those that sent General Gordon armed with a bible and a walkingstick to hold Equatoria against a horde of fanatical Dervish rebels. Kitchener's march has been conducted with the regularity of a machine a mighty machine whose onward movement is crushing and irresistable. For some time Kitcheners slow but sure march attracted little attention. But the brilliant victory won at Atbara some months since made the public keenly alive to its progress. Atbara demonstrated that it was only a question of a short time till the power of the Khalifa would be crushed completely. For the past week or two the attack upon Omdurman, the Dervish stronghold, has been eagerly awaited. The expected has now happened. Omdurman has fallen, the Khalifa is routed and the Mahdist dominion over the Soudan is overthrown. The disgraces of the past have been more than wiped out by the skill of British generalship and the valor of British soldiers. The battle of Omdurman was a brilliant one. The foe, though a savage one, was a foe of conspicuous bravery. It is impossible to withhold admiration for the heroism of the Arab emirs in their magnificent but futile charges on the British lines. Still less is it possible to withhold admiration for the cool courage with which our own men withstood those desperate onslaughts. The success of General Kitchener's expedition sheds glory upon himself and his men; and also upon the government which organized it.

A Friend's Advice Leads to Health and Happiness

Paine's Celery Compound Used by a Mother and Her Daughter

RHEUMATISM, NERVOUSNESS & KIDNEY DISEASE BANISHED

Letter That Should Inspire Hope

A GUARANTEE OF NEW LIFE TO EVERY SUFFERER

Wells & Richardson Co.

Dear Sirs: I think it a duty to write to you regarding the benefits from the use of your Paine's Celery Compound.

For years I was troubled with rheumatism and nervousness. I was treated by doctors, and tried medicine after medicine without any good results. Fortunately a friend of mine told me to try Paine's Celery Componud. I did so and after using four bottles I found I was better and stronger than I had been for years. My daughter was cured of kidney disease after suffering for 12 years, by using a few bottles of Paine's Celery Compound. I advise all suffering from rheumatism, nervousness and kidney troubles to give the compound a trial.

Yours sincerely,
MRS. LOUIS LEFAVE,
Chapleau, Ont.

The Rev. Dr. Hall, of New York, a noted Presbyterian divine, died at Bangor County, Down his native place on September 17th.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any difference if he has lived 80 years. If they have been healthy years, he will be hale and hearty and won't look within 20 years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich, red blood makes people look youthful. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice, it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels in perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive system. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists keep the "Discovery."

A Pointer For You

An eminent M. D. has been reported as saying: "No possible visitation of Cholera can equal the death rate caused by diseased and imperfectly acting kidneys."

This is startling but only too true.

In health the kidney's relieve the system of all poisonous material and discharge it through the urine. Through neglect, however the kidneys become diseased and the poison remains in the blood and increases by minute quantities piling up atom by atom, until the system can no longer resist its effects; then the troubles come thick and fast, the heart is poisoned, its action fails and dropsy appears; the nervous system is poisoned and convulsions are followed by death.

Think then can you afford to neglect your kidneys.

The neglect will surely prove fatal.

Have you a backache?
Do your limbs feel heavy?
Do you have severe headaches?
Are you losing flesh and strength?
Have you that dead-gone-tired-feeling?

Then your kidneys are surely diseased and you need a renovator.

SIMPSON'S Kidney Pills will do the work. They act directly on the kidneys, restore their tissues, remove the poison accumulated in the blood and in fact give you a new lease of life.

Do not be persuaded to take an imitation, but be sure and get the genuine

JABS WITH THE LANCE.

Mr. Stoughton remarked the other day that this was a very strange town in which to invest money. He invested $5 in the turf association last year, and they bought a cemetery with it. A short time since he invested $50 in a newspaper scheme, and got an interest in an old house. Mr. Stoughton now says he is afraid to give any money to the church for fear of finding himself with an interest in a race horse.

In cattle the prizes are $2, $1.50 and $1. This is indeed an inducement to stockmen to lead in their bull calves, bulls, heifers and cows. For a herd of 1 male and 4 female (cattle, of course) the prize is $2 again. We think we see stockmen in the morning of the show driving in herds from all directions to try and win this $2. The only prize worth going after seems to us to be a box of soap offered by a soap foundry for a brood sow with litter. While there's life there's soap. There will be no racing, but the squash and pumpkin experts will all be on hand to make the affair a success. We notice the following: Admission to Crystal Palace, 25c. What this means, goodness only knows. There are 26 Rules and Regulations, each one an obstacle, but the little book is elegantly got up, having, in fact, been printed by the dear departed Free Lance job press.

Here we have a solution for all our difficulties. The Toronto Telegram says that if S Van Horne would assign his porters to run the C.P.R. newspapers, and the editors to run the C. P. R. sleeping cars, the change would be a relief to the reading public. This proposition is all right. If Van will give us a job on a sleeping car, we will cork our faces and go into a deep sleep at once. Any colored porter can run this paper, and we know he will enjoy it because there is so much money in it. When told by the rubbernecks that he is on the pork, he can explain that he is no hog and if Van does not like the tone of his articles he can —er— modify them.

Let us have peace. The presence of rival newspapers should not breed strife. We all have our professions and we all have a right to live. One must eat. Also drink. Instead of abusing and belittling each other, let us rise above paltriness and operate with a kindly spirit and in good humor. The friendly joke indulged in between the editors of little country rags can be conducted in a well understood spirit of raillery and still provide amusement and evoke a smile from the reading public. It is part of the business. The Comforter people were awfuly cordial to us on circus day, for the reason that they are sensible men and can give and take a joke with the best of them, although dreadfuly handicaped with plebiscite proclivities. The Wetaskiwin Free Lance has perhaps indulged in a little too much josh feature in its day, but the good natured rebuttals we have received have shown us that no malice was recognized by our good natured contemporaries. For which we raise our hats in graceful acknowledgment. However, there may be no harm in saying that if the occasion shall arise, we will outslang 'em all. There is absolutely no joke about this.

We are in receipt of the two new Innisfail newspapers. They are both all right. The little Free Lance looms up in great style and looks so like the dear old thing with its answers to correspondents and observations written by some one else that we feel a lump rise in our throat whenever we look at it. We hope Mr. Fleming will make a success of his venture. There is room for us all. We are selling pools in Wetaskiwin on the problem of which paper will bust first.

We have been requested to publish the following electoral address. It sounds a little odd, but we can't help that. It is paid for and has to go.

To the Electors of the Innisfail Electoral District.

Gentlemen: At the earnest solicitation of my political advisers, who are all on the pork, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate at the approaching elections and now solicit your vote and influence.

It would be my aim, if elected as your representative, to collect my salary and secure a pass on the C. P. R. Any measures that are conducive to my interests I shall promote and support to the best of my ability, and on the evening of my election I promise that there will be a hot time in the old town that night.

I shall take occasion to meet as many of the electors as possible in a little game of draw, and discuss the futility of trying to come any queer shuffles on yours truly. Meanwhile I respectfully desire those who are favorable to my candidature to vote on election day for

Yours respectfully,
PICTON PHILLIPS.

If our eye could only pierce the hearts of men, see their thoughts ere their lips proclaim them, we would lose all conceit in our species. We would discover that they are not much better than ourselves after all, which of course would be an awful shock. We can well imagine the Archangel Gabriel, or Mr. Johnson, standing under the pale stars in the vicinity of Jerry Boyce's bar, covering his face with his hands and inquiring in voice low and sweet after an M. L. A. candidate. Some rubberneck coming from his devotions, would possibly steer Picton Phillips up agtainst the archangel, who after setting them up, would promulgate the divine bidding and tell the budding M. L. A. candidate that he was strictly on the pork. The world will roll on for ages. We can't stop it, and the pilgrimage of man will pass through many states of existence, but the last existence of an M. L. A. will be worse than the first. Roll on, proud world!

They are very genial fellows who run the Innisfail Free Lance and we hope they wont get mad when we correct them in the following commencement to one of their paragraphs: "The path of glory leads but to the grave," so wrote Wolfe. This line occurs in Gray's "Elegy written in a Country Churchyard." Wolfe was all right in his way, but he never wrote that line.

And so Corbett and McCoy are going to fight after all. Well, we suppose we'll have to stand it. Corbett should win this contest.

If England has really given Russia to understand that the time has come to settle the controversy between them, there can be no doubt as to where the sympathy of the United States will go. England desires open ports in China, and Russia desires to close them. The open port is what we want, and lots of it. Russia should first learn to govern herself before undertaking to branch out.

There is one vice that should be suppressed with proper vigor, and that is the common street vice of open profanity. We often hear it on the streets of Wetaskiwin, especially when some one is off on a toot. It should not be allowed. There is an ordinance, we believe, which applies to the public use of profanity. One of the greatest evils of the profanity habit is that men who are addicted to it use it in the presence of women and children, anywhere, in fact. To women it is simply shocking, but its effect on the "kid" element is infinitely worse. Long before the time when they are able to comprehend what the words mean they acquire a vocabulary which a few years later they would not think of adopting under any circumstances. For this the grown up swearers are solely to blame. There ought to be no place for grown up swearers in decent society. Swearing is not a pretty habit and there is certainly nothing funny about.

THE LEGISLATURE

NEW CONSTITUENCIES

Premier Haultain moved the second reading of the redistribution bill. Some boundaries were slightly altered solely with a view to the convenience of voters. Two new constituencies were created, Whitewood and Wolseley was divided into three, a central constituency, Grenfell being made, and the Red Deer district was divided, the new constituency having Wetaskiwin for its centre. One row of townships was taken from Calgary and added on to Red Deer.

BRAND ORDINANCE

Minister Ross moved the second reading of an ordinance to amend the brand ordinance. It dealt chiefly with the registration of vents, and also gave the minister power to remove districts from the co-operation of the ordinance when desirable. He took occasion to say that the High River Stock association had endorsed the brand system adopted by the assembly. The government had taken a leap in the dark. They had lighted on their feet and produced a good ordinance. The bill was read a second time.

Regina, September 18.—On Saturday night the Assembly chambers were crowded with visitors eager to hear the statement of Mr. Bulyea.

Mr. Bulyea was loudly cheered on rising to speak. He made a lengthy and eloquent speech, going over the whole ground of his mission detailing the difficulties met with on his first arrival.

Mr. Bulyea then dealt with the question of importation. In these matters too Major Walsh acted with a high hand, like a great I am. He would take no notice of documents signed by the administrator of the Territories or even of the department of the interior, and had liquor seized that he had no right to seize. When the Yukon bill came the question arose about those who had been selling by Major Walsh's permission. Ten men had paid for their permits but there were others who had acted on Major Walsh's advice, considering him the highest authority, had put up expensve buildings, they had been willing to take out permits but for Major Walsh's interference. An understanding was come to by which these men deposited $1000 each in a bank and signed an agreement to contribute $2000 a year towards the public improvements of the city, the time to be computed from the time they opened their saloons until the time the new law came into operation.

He concluded by saying there would have been no difficulty whatever if Major Walsh had been a man of more diplomacy and less egotism.

D. Mowat and Dr. Brett congratulated the government on having selected so able a commissioner as Mr. Bulyea, but reiterated their assertion that the government ought to have announced their policy last session.

Mr. Eakin thought that a temperance man like Mr. Bulyea was the one man to regulate the liquor traffic in such a region.

Mr. Ross replied to the objections made and was supported by Dr. Patrick.

Premier Haultain closed the debate, cordially welcoming Mr. Bulyea home. The report given justified the expedition and Dr. Brett's objections had been anewered over and over again. After what they had heard in connexion with the conduct of Major Walsh he would say that if that official could not be proceeded against under the criminal code, he Premier Haultain, would feel it his duty to have him impeached next session at the bar of the house of commons. Cheers.

The house then adjourned. The assembly will prorogue on Monday.

INTERESTING CEREMONY

The Masonic Monument in Memory of Samuel Livingstone Unveiled.

On Sunday, September 18th, a very unusual and unique Masonic ceremony was performed in the cemetery here, viz., the unveiling of a monument to the memory of the late Bro. Samuel Livingstone, one of the old timers of Calgary, and at one time a prominent member of the Masonic fraternity. The brethren assembled in the Masonic Hall, Stephen Avenue, shortly after 2 o'clock and proceeded, clothed in their Masonic regalia, in procession as far as the Queens hotel, where a number of coneyances were awaiting them, and from that point drove to the entrance of the cemetery where forming in procession again, headed by the tyler. Wor. Bro. Gordon acting as Wor. Master of Bow River Lodge in the unavoidable absence of Wor. Bro. J. De Sousa, the Master; and Wor. Brother F. Higgs, Wor. Master of Perfection Lodge; Bros. Blick, S. W.; Bro. R. L. Alexander, J. W. of Bow River Lodge. Brother Marker acting S. W., and Bro. May, J. W. of Perfection Lodge and the officers of both lodges, accompanied by a very large number of Masons proceeded to the grave. Bro. Votier, one of the early friends of the deceased brother, carrying the volume of the sacred law. Here a very impresive ceremony was gone through, the brethren closing round the grave in an oblong square, Wor. Bro. F. Higgs acting as chaplain, after joining in the hymn:

"Days and moments quickly flying
Blend the living with the dead,
Soon will you and I be lying
Each within our narrow bed.

The Wardens unveiled the monument, which is a beautifully executed piece of masonry, fully inscribed to the memory of Samuel Livingstone, and the Wardens and the Master having placed their respective flowers and wreaths upon the grave with touching words from each, suitable to the occasion, the brethren joined in singing the hymn:

"A few more years shall roll,
A few more seasons come,
And we shall be with those that rest
Asleep within the tomb."

With uncovered heads and riveted attention the brethren listened to the eulogium which Wor. Bro. James Reilly, one of the oldest Masons in Calgary, in very impressive and beautifully chosen language gave to the memory of the departed brother.

The speaker said:

Worshipful Master and brethren, ladies and gentlemen:

It is a mark of the highest civilization to pay tributes of respect to the worthy dead. We are come together today to mark with this beautiful monument the resting place of a man whose remarkable individuality made a deep and pleasant impresion on the community where he lived and acted. Our brother Livingstone was a native of the Emerald Isle, born in the beautiful county of Wicklow, near the Vale of Avoca, one of the most beautiful spots in Europe, famous in story and song. At the age of 16, in the morning of life, a youth of remarkable beauty of feature and figure, he crossed the ocean just about 51 years ago and landed in New York, whence he found his way to some relatives in Wisconsin about the close of the forties. The discovery of gold in California fired him with the desire of wealth and happiness, and he joined the early argonauts to the California mines, where he engaged in what was to him the most attractive of vocations, that of prospector and miner.

Here he remained for some years and became well skilled in all the agencies of placer mining. With a few companions he drifted north and east in search of other fields of adventure. Towards the close of the autumn of 1864 we trace him in company with a few companions, miners wearied with disappointment, entering a ravine near the summit of the Rocky Mountains in Central Montana. The winter was coming, the surroundings an uninhabited wild, their larder about exhausted, when one of the party exclaimed: "This is the last chance gulch." The last chance proved a lucky one, gold was found and there were built miners' cabins—some of which I had the pleasure of seeing—there was fixed the site, and there today stands the beautiful City of Helena, the capital of our neighboring state of Montana.

But the miner scarcely ever halts. We next hear of him in the Kootenay, then drifting along the head waters of the Saskatchewan, and down to the then only agricultural centre in our great north land, Edmonton, where he tarried for a time, engaged in washing out gold. Still drifting eastwards he came to the trading post of Victoria, the site of a mission school and a settlement of families of the mixed race. Grown weary of the hardships of a miners' life our hero craved the rest of a home and here he met, loved and married an educated daughter of the prairies, whom he cared for and cherished to the close of his life; to them has been given a family of 14, all of whom with the mother survives, and to whom he has left the inheritance of an unblemished and honorable name, which if preserved will last while rain and sunshine makes green and attractive the beautiful hillsides of Alberta.

He remained six years at Victoria, where he attempted farming, finding the winters extended, he turned to the country of the McDougals, to the home of the buffalo, to the beautiful feeding grounds of Central Alberta.

While engaged in the merry chase of the wild herds that dotted our prairies in the early seventies he found himself on one of the prominent uplands, near the mouth of the Elbow river, and spread out before him was a scene of indescribable beauty. It was in October, the foliage of the trees that fringed both streams was variegated and lovely, encircling the valley where Calgary now proudly stands. The morning was clear and in the distance was seen one hundred miles of the grandest mountain range that the eye of man ever rested upon. To his right hand, but a few rods distant, was the confluence of our popular streams the Bow and the Elbow. It was another "meeting of the waters," clear, cool and sweet. He was entranced. He saw before him, with that vividness of memory, so characteristic of his race, another Vale of Avoca, and the words of Ireland's favorite poet occurred to him:

"There is not in this wide world a valley so sweet,
As the vale in whose bosom the bright waters meet."

On one of the most attractive uplands, within a few miles of this meeting of the waters, Livingstone made his home, and here we found him when we came in with the railway in '83. After the disappearance of the buffalo, our frontier man and hardy pioneer, engaged in the contemplation and forecast of the future. A cultivation and study of the soil revealed to him its wonderful fertility and made him an enthusiastic believer in its early and successful development. In the rich pastures extending both far and wide he saw in the future like the psalmist of old "the cattle on a thousand hills." Many were the dangers that environed him from hostile Indians on the then unguarded frontier. The story is often told of his holding the plough in one hand and the rifle in the other, while his wife and child walked by his side. But he lived to see our numerous herds and our smiling grain fields.

The character of our venerated citizen deserves our notice. He was most agreeable and entertaining as a companion and friend, serious while communicative, no man ever heard Livingstone use light or frivolous speech. We stood by his side while he conversed with some of the leading statesmen of the Dominion, who on all occasions paid him marked courtesy and respect. We heard him with encouraging words smooth the pathway of the tenderfoot and pioneer settler, and to all were given arguments and conclusions that marks the man of reading and reflection. In politics he favored independence of party, and pronounced a terse and vigorous condemnation of anything in the shape of monopoly or aggression, and boldly declared for equal rights to all and special privileges to none. As a citizen he was broad minded, patriotic and brave; as a neighbor and friend genial, hospitable and kind. In religion since his marriage by the late Rev. George McDougal, himself and family belonged to the Methodist church. A few years since he became a member of our Masonic brotherhood, which encircles the globe with its peculiar system of morality, claiming the universal fatherhood of God, and the essential brotherhood of man. But the evening of his life was drawing near, the hardships and privations of the early miners toils had undermined the apparently vigorous frame, and friends noted the erect form totter, and the bright blue eye grow dim, and at last the end came and the lion heart of the grand old pioneer and frontiersman failed him and on the fourth day of October last, surrounded by friends, in the centre of the city, in this beautiful valley, he went to his long rest.

And now in the sight of that city and in the evening shadows of the everlasting hills he loved so well, we have laid him forever at rest; we have laid him forever in honor, and by this beautiful tribute to his memory, by this mute yet intelligent appeal to posterity we have stayed in a measure the effacing power of time or oblivion.

The prayer of consecration followed and the brethren joined in the grand honors, which according to ancient usage amongst Masons, should follow such a ceremony, and the procesion filed away from the grave in perfect order, returning to the conveyances which took them back to the lodge room.

The ceremony was witnesed by a large number of the citizens, who had been tempted out by the perfect beauty of the day, by respect to the memory of one to whom Calgary owes so much, and perhaps by some amount of curiosity to witness so unusual a sight.

BERRYDALE NEWS

Berrydale, September 15.—The weather being all that could be desired, indeed Albertas best, the people were out for a picnic in the Berrydale school district on September 10th. The gathering was not an extra large one, but nearly everybody who resided in the district was there and some came from quite a distance, amongst others were Mr. and Mrs. T. O. Critchley and family. The Olds Brass band was in atendance and great praise is due to them, for considering the very short time they have been in practice it filled the company present with glee to hear the strains of music they poured out. The grounds chosen were in the centre of T. O. Critchley, W. Peck and Colin Thompson's, and is in the spruces of the Little Red Deer river. The grounds, although just as the divine giver left them, could by a little labor and contrivance be converted into a beautiful landscape. The valleys and fine scenery are well worth the attention of the visitor.

The crops were cut and stooked. After the band had played their first selection everybody was invited to partake of the good things provided, which were plentiful.

A stand was erected at which ice cream, lemonade and oranges were to be obtained at reasonable prices, profit being for the benefit of the band. Everybody thoroughly enjoyed themselves. There were a variety of games, the elderly people taking a good share in the sport. All dispersed to their homes well pleased with their day's outing. The band were invited to T. O. Critchley's residence, where they played some of their selections, and were cordially received.

REV. MR. HARVEY'S MEETING

(Contributed)

Rev. Will Harvey was announced as the first speaker in the debate in the Alberta School of Music on Friday night last, the question being "Does prohibition prohibit?" Nearly all the prohibitionists in the district were present, besides some citizens who have as yet advocated neither side of the question.

The chair was taken by Rev. Mr. Langford, who made a few introductory remarks, after which Rev. Mr. Harvey took the floor and held it till half past nine. Mr. Harvey is a voluble but somewhat illogical speaker and as a great majority of his audience were supporters of the prohibition standard, the task of bringing them to his way of thinking was not by any means difficult, and any little errors in his language or his logic were overlooked in the kindliest manner.

Mr. Harvey pointed out the blessings which would accrue from the total prohibition of the importation, manufacture or sale of intoxicating liquor throughout the Dominion. He pointed out in detail the splendid results which had been achieved through a prohibitive system in the state of Maine. The mortgage indebtedness had been removed, the people happy and content, and the jails emptied. He (the speaker) had been present at an institution in that state where there were 150 boys and girls aged from 17 to 25 not one of whom had ever seen a drunken man. (A gentleman in the audience who here desired to ask the lecturer if these boys and girls were inmates of a blind asylum was promptly suppressed by his friends.) Prohibition, however, which did not prohibit could not be a success. Here the speaker created some surprise by again using the state of Maine as an example, showing how, in spite of the prohibitive law, the United States government had last year issued no less than 750 licenses to sell liquor in the state, and how by the use of certain methods, those who wanted whiskey had very little difficulty in getting it. He also pointed out the necessity for educating the young to a distaste for liquor. Every hereditary disease might be conquered in this way. In this connexion he spoke of the Galician settlers at Edmonton with whom he was acquainted. He described them as people who for generations had been taught to steal, and who were brought here to "raise up" the country, but were unable to do it as it was not portable. They had no ideas of what the speaker was pleased to call the law of "mea and tea" but the laws on the statute book against theft would teach them in the same way as a prohibitive law would stop drinking.

Most of the newspapers in the country were unfortunately opposed to the prohibition movement. As a result of his experience he (the speaker) had no hesitation in saying that 80 out of every 100 newspaper men had no higher moral tone than the ordinary house cat. He stated incidentally that he had been himself a newspaper man, so that he may after all have been speaking only from personal feelings.

There should be no recrimination in this campaign. The opponents of prohibition had parrot like cries about "personal liberty" but they did not know what they were talking about. He quoted John Stuart Mills for the purpose of showing the limits of personal liberty and in conclusion quoted an extract from Rudyard Kipling's last book, in which the writer spoke of his having been converted to prohibition after having seen two young ladies of family and two young gentlemen of culture drink steadily for the greater part of a day and a night in the Tremont House at Boston, and then left for— God knows where! (This horrible picture should be warning to all young ladies of family who are accustomed to spend their evenings in saloons). Finally, the speaker expressed the opinion that the only opponents of prohibition at the polls would be saloon keepers and their hangers on, and possibly a few honest but mistaken people. He did not mention under which category he placed the Archbishop of Rupert's Land, the Archbishop of Ottawa, the Archbishop of St. Boniface, Rev. Principal Grant and Profesor Goldwin Smith, who have declared against prohibition.

An invitation was given by the Rev. Chairman to any member of the audience to reply to Mr. Harvey, but nobody took advantage of it.

Mr. Millar sang a pretty little song very acceptably indeed, and the audience separated after singing God Save the Queen.

APATHY OF ANTI-PROHIBITIONISTS

To the Editor of The Herald:

Sir: I have been reading recently the "Christian Unity and Idealism" of Prof. Watson of Kingston University. The fact that the learned professor is somewhat handicapped by a tendency akin to that of the medieval schoolmen to discuss how many thousand angels might dance on the point of a needle, need not detract from the rational value of many of his postulates.

One of them I find fitting to my present purpose. "For," he says, "even if Jesus cherished the hope of the external soverignty of Israel he could not possibly accept the ideal of the Pharisees. An Israel in which the whole government should be in the hands of saints of the Pharisaic type was something too dreadful to contemplate."

Yet this is precisely the kind of tyranny with which we are threatened by the well meaning but misdirected zeal of the prohibition monidealist.

In a well written leader on this subject the Canadian Churchman of the 8th instant says: "There can be no doubt whatever of the seriousness of the question which the inhabitants of the Dominion will be called to answer in a very short time. Shall we continue the manufacture and sale of alcoholic liquors in this country? This is the question which will be put to the people and answered in the affirmative or negative very soon. If it is answered in the affirmative the government have pledged themselves to bring in a bill prohibiting the manufacture and sale of all intoxicating liquors. The prohibitionists are evidently alive to the importance of the subject. They are already circulating bills and tracts urging the people to vote for prohibition. Apparently the opponents of prohibition are not equally alive, believing that it will not be carried, or that, if carried, it will not be enforced. Now at the present moment we do not care to argue the question on its merits. We may do so hereafter."

I find in this formula that which precisely expresses my present views. I shall probably solicit your favor for one or two more letters on this subject, dealing with certain aspects of the case. Meantime the point beyond which I do not feel justified in taking your space in one communication is indicated in the lines I have taken the liberty to quote.

No! The opponents of prohibition are not equally alive! I fought this battle twice over in certain townships in Northumberland many years ago, once against the Dunkin act, once against the Scott act. In each case we were beaten for a very simple reason, the opponents of prohibition were too near sighted and too indolent to turn out and vote.

This is the point I desire to make in this communication. There is a singular ineptitude on the part of the general public to grasp great and broad issues. If I should be fortunate enough to rouse to a sense of them even half a dozen voters I should consider my trouble well repaid. Let anti-prohibitionists throw aside for once their accustomed lethargy, and come to the polls like men who have some sense of duty to the interests of their country. If you will grant me space I will follow up this with some comments on other phases of the question.

Respectfully yours,
FRANC-TIREUR.

Calgary, September 14th, 1898.

RATES TO WESTMINSTER EXHIBITION

Mr. E. J. Coyle, District Passenger Agent, Canadian Pacific railway Co. has issued a circular giving effect to the following rates in connection with the Westminster Exhibition:

|---|---|
| Westminster Jct | $ 45 |
| Port Moody | 65 |
| Hammond | 80 |
| Haney | 90 |
| Wharnock | 1 20 |
| Mission Jct | 1 70 |
| Huntingdon | 2 20 |
| Harrison | 2 70 |
| Agassia | 3 15 |
| Hope | 4 05 |
| Yale | 4 70 |
| North Bend | 6 05 |
| Lytton | 6 90 |
| Spencers Bridge | 7 55 |
| Ashcroft | 8 30 |
| Savonas | 9 00 |
| Kamloops | 9 75 |
| Shuswap | 10 70 |
| Salmon Arm | 11 70 |
| Sicamous Jct | 12 25 |
| Clan William | 13 30 |
| Revelstoke | 13 55 |
| Illecillewaet | 14 40 |
| Glacier | 14 90 |
| Beavermouth | 15 00 |
| Donald | 15 05 |
| Golden | 16 45 |
| Palliser | 16 65 |
| Field | 17 45 |
| Hector | 17 70 |
| Laggan | 18 00 |
| Banff | 19 00 |
| Anthracite | 19 15 |
| Canmore | 19 45 |
| Morley | 20 20 |
| Cochrane | 20 75 |
| Calgary | 21 45 |
| Enderby | 12 05 |
| Armstrong | 13 20 |
| Vernon | 13 65 |
| Okanogan Landing | 13 80 |
| Kelowna | 14 80 |
| Penticton | 10 05 |

These rates are exceptionally low, in fact the Canadian Pacific Railway has been more liberal in its endeavor to foster and make successful the provincial exhibition to be held in Westminster than the railway companies make for similar exhibitions held in eastern Canada. It is expected that the attendance from the interior will be very large. The rate is made as an experiment, and heavy ticket sales will no doubt cause the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to treat future provincial exhibitions in a like liberal manner.

In addition, the Railway Company has arranged for the free transportation of exhibits. Shippers of exhibits will pay regular rates to New Westminster, and providing same do not change hands they will be returned free to starting point and the exhibitors refunded charges paid into New Westminster.

WHAT USERS OF DIAMOND DYES SAY.

Opinions Worth Considering by Those Who Have Never Done Home Dyeing

Mrs. N. Wood, Campbellford, Ont., says: "Having a carpet to make and a good deal to coloring to do, I thought I would give the Diamond Dyes a trial. I used them and they produced most beautiful colors, and I was pleased with the effects in my carpet. I am a farmer's wife and after this will use only the Diamond Dyes."

Mrs. M. R. Bell, Victoria Harbor, Ont., says: "I find great pleasure in dyeing with the wonderful Diamond Dyes. They make old clothes, dresses, silks, feathers, and wool goods, looks as good as new."

Mrs. T. Spence, Emigrant Road, N. B., says: "I have used Diamond Dyes for 10 years on all kinds of coloring. I spin, weave cloth, and dye all the the clothes we wear for every day, besides making rugs and carpets."

Mrs. B. B. Tobbin, Brandon, Man., says: "Diamond Dyes are used in our home every month for the coloring of dresses, ribbons, hose, etc., and they give the very best results. We save many dollars yearly by using your celebrated dyes."

TICKET SCALPING

On Wednesday at Calgary before Magistrate Winter S. A. Fiddes, a new comer in the country, who is employed at the Royal hotel, was charged by C. P. R. detective Hossack with selling an unused ticket. Fiddes pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs. R. B. Bennett appeared for the prosecution.

Mr. Fiddes gives the following explanation: About a week ago a man named John Nott, supposed to be in the employ of the C. P. R., came to him and offered to sell a ticket to Montreal for $9. He told him (Nott) that he would try and sell it for him, not knowing at the time that it was against the law. Fiddes sold the ticket for $15 to a local man, who only got as far as Moose Jaw when he was arrested.

"What I can't understand," said Mr. Fiddes, "is that I have no remedy against Nott, who I have been informed is a C. P. R. spotter. I do not blame the C. P. R. in any way, but I consider I was unfairly roped in by the spotter, if such he was."

What a glorious thing is liberty! Alas, how many are in bondage to the ravages of disease, and what disease holds more slaves to-day than catarrh does? That you can have liberty from it is a thousand-times-proven fact. DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER has solved the problem. You want evidence. An army of prominent and reliable people have attested to the efficacy, the quick and permanent healing powers of this wonderful remedy. Can anyone distrust the testimony of such men as Bishop Sweatman, Rev. John Langtry, of the Episcopalian church, Toronto; Rev. Dr. Withrow, Rev. Dr. Galbraith, of the Methodist church in Canada; Rev. Mungo Fraser, of the Presbyterian church, Hamilton, and a long list of Senators, Commoners, and professional men of the highest standing in the Dominion? Their written testimony you can verify any time. Here are two of the most recent received. They come of the fulness of the heart and unsolicited.

"I am so well pleased with Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder and the good results derived from it that I hardly know how to express myself. For years I have been troubled with catarrh in the head and throat. I have tried different remedies, but found no relief until I began using Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Words cannot express my gratitude for the good it has done me." Mrs. M. Greewood, 204 Adelaide street west, Toronto.

"I have been a sufferer from throat and nasal catarrh for over twenty years. All efforts to get rid of the disgusting malady failed, until I used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. I had tried many remedies, and spent lots of money with physicians. I was attracted to your remedy by seeing it in a drug store. I procured a bottle, and in 15 minutes after the first application I had relief, and after using three bottles I feel I am cured. It is truly a marvellous remedy." Charles C. Brown, Manager Ind. Press Bureau, Duluth, Minn.

Dr. Agnew's Cure for the Heart and Dr. Agnew's Ointment are as efficacious for the ailments for which they were compounded as is Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. The Heart Cure is a life-saver when it seems past hope; the Ointment never fails to heal all skin disorders and piles; Dr. Agnew's Pills cure sick headache, constipation, biliousness and liver troubles—little pills, little doses.

THE HOOLEY REVELATIONS

London and Its Marvels—Seven Times Twins—Women as Agriculturists Canadian Exports—The Australian Oranges—American Competition—The British Harvest—The Weather

London, August 23.—It is no slight compliment to Lord Charles Beresford's ability and energy, that the foremost commercial body in the Kingdom has selected him for the discharge a duty uttterly foreign to the calling in which he has hitherto distinguished himself. But it is a truism to say that a capable man will do well whatever he undertakes, and in entrusting the important work referred to, to Lord Charles Beresford, the associated chambers of commerce of Great Britain have done credit to their own discretion as well as to the admiral's ability. The associated chambers represent all the chambers of commerce in the United Kingdom. It is therefore the most important commercial body in the land, and the mission now entrusted to Lord Charles is probably the most importan it has ever deputed to the care of any individual. His instructions are of a very wide and comprehensive character. He is to enquire especially, "as to what extent the Chinese government appears to be in a position to guarantee the safe employment of British capital now in the interior of the country, as well as in the immediate future." It is almost an enquiry into the present and prospective stability of the Chinese government itself.

Attention has been drawn to a fact which has been published in the new report on Canadian Agriculture. Professor Robertson quotes a letter written by a Liverpool merchant to a Montreal exporter in which he says that the s.s. Parisian arrived on a particular date with 800 boxes of "filled" cheese, which we know as margarine cheese in this country; these boxes having neither brand nor mark to denote their character. The names of the shipper and the Liverpool firm are given. They were undoubtedly, as the writer says, sent from Chicago via Monreal for the purpose of evading seizure at either of the ports of the U. S. On another day the attention of the Canadian commissioner was called to a suspicious lot of 177 boxes of cheese which had been shipped from Chicago, and which were to be sent to Glasgow. They were not branded, but the boxes were marked with the letters "U.S.A." and the ends, "Produce of the U. S. A." No definite chemical test was made, but in the opinion of the commissioner they were also margarine cheese. Those who are interested in the detection of margarine will do well to bear these facts in mind and it would be as well that suspicious cheese should be occasionally tested. as well as suspicious butter; for large quantities are manufactured in the States, whereas in Canada no such article is allowed to be manufactured at all whether margarine, or margarine butter.

HOOLEY REVELATIONS

Mr. Justice White gave judgment on Wednesday in the application to commit for contempt of court Earl de la Warr, Mr. Broadly, and Mr. Bradshaw, who had been reported by the registrar as having attempted to bribe Mr. Hooley to alter his evidence in their favor. Briefly the result is that Lord de la Warr escapes by the skin of his teeth and Mr. Broadly by something less. The judge remarked, concerning Mr. Hooley, that he was "not a mere liar, scattering accusations which he knew to be without foundation," but that he was as a witness, "rash, reckless and inaccurate. Sometimes he seems to be under mere illusions," and in a word, Mr. Justice Wright determined to disregard his evidence altogether. Discredit the evidence as he will, the plain fact remains that systematically he gave large sums to all kinds of persons to pay the "services" which they might render, or were supposed to render to his companies. He had concerns to sell; he paid these people for bringing, or in the hope that they might bring, buyers. He certainly paid a number of professional business men and a certain number of noble lords. Lord Del la Warr and and Lord Albemarle's attempt to draw a sharp distinction between receiving several thousand pounds as an inducement to join a board and receiving them as a reward "for services rendered" is sheer nonsense. Common sense protests that there is no distinction.

Surely this from the Birmingham Gazette beats the record: "Seven times has Mrs. Edward Harris of Picklane, given birth to twins. The last pair were boys, and arrived about two weeks ago. The 14 children are all living. Mrs. Harris is in her 53rd year."

LONDON

In a volume of statistics and figures just issued by the London county council there are some particulars about London which are to say the least stupendous and amazing. One learns that the population was in the month of March, 1896, 4,443,018. Nothing illustrates the wonderful character of the London population better than the calculation made by an authority that in London there are more Scotchmen than in Aberdeen; more Irishmen than in Belfast; more Welshmen than in Cardiff; more Jews than in Palestine; and more Roman Catholics than in Rome. A child, on being informed of the size of London, remarked, "what a lot of cooking there must be," and certainly the statistics are startling. There are fifty million gallons of ale, eight million gallons of wine consumed in a year. But the food supply is on the same scale —2,000,000 quarters of wheat; 850,000 oxen; 4,000,000 sheep, pigs and calves; 9,000,000 head of game and poultry; and 160,000 tons of fish—a list that would have given huge satisfaction to Sancho Panza.

Some particulars about the public places of London are interesting and suggestive. There are about 1500 theatres, music halls, and concert rooms. There are over 8,000 public houses, and 2000 coffee houses. The school board spends about £3,000,000 on the 500 schools under its care, and educates 600,000 children for that amount. There are 1600 churches and chapels—which means that if all its people were suddenly smitten with the desire to go to divine service, it would be impossible for nine out of every ten to gratify the wish. This is perhaps the most significant fact in all its characteristics. Within a 12 mile radius of Charing Cross there are 400 railway stations, there are 800 miles of railway in London, there are 2000 omnibuses, there are 1100 tram cars, and 25,000 cabs of one sort or other.

There has been a remarkable development of the Canadian export trade which is scarcely likely to be maintained at the same rate. The institution of the new Canadian customs scheme, by which British goods are admitted at 25 per cent less duty than those from other countries, is responsible for the fact that last week over £87,000 worth of woollens were exported from Liverpool to the Dominion. The facts will probably come to the ears of continental firms, and are not likely to impart pleasurable feelings, especially in Germany. It should now become the duty of those concerned to be on the look out for any attempts at introducing foreign goods into Canada by surreptious methods, the nature of which it is not necessary to indicate.

WOMEN AND AGRICULTURE

The Countess of Warwick is about to make an interesting experiment, and one which is likely if it meets with success, to have an appreciable effect upon agriculture in England. Lady Warwick's idea is that it would be useful to form settlements of women in different parts of the country for the cultivation of the land, and thus enable them to add to their income by the sale of fruit, flowers, vegetables, poultry, eggs, honey, or the produce of their gardens and poultry runs. There is little doubt that a moderate means of livelihood can be obtained in this way, but in the present state of keen competition success falls chiefly, if not entirely, to the "trained capacity" and organized worker.

Those women, therefore, who propose to embark on such an enterprise must first qualify themselves for the work. The hostel which Lady Warwick hopes to open in October in connexion with the Reading college, will be an institution where such qualifications may be obtained. It will be founded for the definite purpose of enabling women over the age of 16 to obtain a thorough training (theoretical and practical) in the lighter branches of agriculture, viz: Flower and fruit farming and packing for market, especially bush fruit, tomatoes, mushrooms, etc., bee and poultry rearing, dairy work, etc. The council of Reading college have consented to provide the necessary courses of instruction, and to recognize the Countess of Warwick's hostel, as a place of residence for women students. The full course of instruction will extend over two years, and the fees for board and instruction will not exceed £50 a year.

AUSTRALIAN ORANGES

Just as the Tasmania apples reaches this country when the home grown stores are exhausted, the Australian orange is now endeavoring to obtain a footing here by arriving some months before the advent of the European varieties. During the past few days the unusual sight has been presented at the principal London fruiterers, of a tempting display of luscious oranges from New South Wales they having arrived by the P. & O. steamer Oceana, and the Orient steamer Oruba; and further weekly consignments are expected until the end of the month. The trade thus beginning is a purely private enterprise, but it is being watched with considerable interest by the South Wales government, whose action, indeed, in sending an experimental shipment last year undoubtedly paved the way for the present development. While the official consignment made the voyage in cool chambers, and was thus able to be retailed in firm condition, those now arriving as a general cargo, are not quite in such grand condition.

WOLF TONE CELEBRATION

Nothwithstanding the success of the Wolf Tone celebration in Dublin, it is notable that the new '98 has killed th old '998 for good and all. Home rule is on its last legs, and shaky at that, so far as practical politics are concerned. The Irish local government act of the last session has dealt a most severe blow to the Nationalist party, whose funds have for some years been getting lower and lower. America, a prolific source of supply, has shown a great falling off since the war with Spain broke out, and the Anglo-Saxon rapprochment was inaugurated. The probability is we shall have less and less of the Irish Nationalists in parliament, and that the campaign will now be shifted to the Emerald Isle, where an attempt will be made to capture the new councils under the local government act. For this relief the country generally would be profoundly thankful.

TRADE WITH CANADA

The development of trade with Canada is a matter of vast importance to this country. From a national point of view, it is clearly advantageous in the face of jealous continental rivalry, that the immense colonial dependencies should be brought into closer relations with the mother country. Cold storage has brought about a revolution in the handling of produce, and the government of Canada is doing all that is possible to make use of the latest developments in transit. Canadian butter now disputes the market with Danish, and there is no reason why Canadian bacon, cheese and fruit should not be equally successful. In 1885 only three per cent of our food stuffs came from Canada. In 1897 we took eight per cent. By giving English goods the benefit of preferential treatment in duties, Canada has made a bold and generous bid for a commercial alliance.

SOUTH WALES STRIKE

Sad reports come from the South Wales district, in consequence of the long continued strike, when for three months, 100,000 men have ceased working. From Newport, an important shipping port, sad report of the destitution existing in consequence come, 80 per cent of the shipping business of the port has vanised, trade is practically at a stand still, credit has stopped, and the local funds are drying up through the inability of the townspeople to keep up subscriptions. Sir Edward Fry, for many years a judge of the highest ability and distinction, was appointed by the President of the Board of Trade, in the exercise of his statutory powers, as concilliator. He had several interviews with the leaders of the men who expressed their desire to cooperate with him in making terms of peace. The masters would have nothing to do with him. They would not acknowledge him or the minister who selected him, or the government to which that minister belongs, or the act of parliament which gave Sir Edward his position. This childish arrogance, this obstinate refusal, not only to take advice, but to listen to it must turn public opinion against the masters.

THE POPE

The recent illness of the Pope has set a good many people talking about the succession to the papal chair. The probability of the election of Cardinal Jerman Maria Gotti, of the Carmelite order, whose name has been frequently mentioned on the continent does not seem great, not, however, on acount of his humble birth—he is the son of a Genoese dock laborer—for this consideration may not be suposed to weigh with the conclave. Many popes have sprung from ranks far removed from the purple. Nicholas Brakspear, afterwards Adrian IV, the only Englishman who ever became pope, was once so poor as to be compelled to beg his bread. But Cardinal Gotti does not appear to be sufficiently popular, notwithstanding his brilliant diplomatic services in Brazil, to warant the assumption that he will be elected to succeed Leo XIII.

THE GLADSTONE DUBLIN STATUE

The Dublin corporation having refused to assist in any way in the erection of a statue to Mr. Gladstone, Sir Charles Gavan Duffy, who in his day, worked and suffered more for the cause of Ireland than all the Parnellites together, writes from San Dalmazzo, to express his contempt for "the disgraceful and disgusting conduct" of the Dublin corporation in refusing to do so. The action of the Parnellite corporation has been admitted by English home rulers to be hard to endure, but Sir Charles exclaims: "How much harder is it for Irish Nationalists to see the cause they love, disgraced so far as the misconduct of the handful of Phillistines can disgrace it before the civilized world!" The ungrateful Parnellite party is reminded by the veteran Nationalist that even after the ampiest allowances are made for the services of Mr. Parnell and the Irish party, the fact remains if there had been no Mr. Gladstone the Irish church would still be unreformed. The Irish franchise would still be a mockery of popular representation, the protection of the ballot would not exist, and a home rule bill would not have passed the House of Commons.

AMERICAN COMPETITION IN CAST IRON

An interesting example of the competition home industries have to go against is furnished this week by the experience of the Glasgow corporation, who some time ago invited tenders for the supply of 1,000 tons of cast iron pipes. The two lowest tenders came from the United States, but as the castings were wanted in nine feet lengths, and those speeified by the Americans were 12 feet long, revised estimates were askel for, and the amounts of the several quotations made known. The amended offers show, that an American firm again asks less than any of the others; and as there are over 200 iron foundries in Glasgow, and most of them deal in pipes, the committee in charge decided to leave the matter over for future consideration.

THE WEATHER AND CROPS

Since the begining of last week up to Monday night, we have been treated to a spell of brilliant weather, the thermometer fluctuated from 70 to 80 degrees in the shade, and the moist state of the atmosphere rendered the heat oppressive in the extreme. Under these conditions harvest has been rapidly proceeding. Some of the crops are a good deal battered, but on the whole they have not been so severely handled as anticipated, with a further spell of fine weather, farmers will be able to say, so far as Britain is concerned, an admirable harvest has been reaped. The crops are so heavy in certain districts that the American machines have been found too light for the work, and many have broken down.

The exhibition at New Westminster will not be postponed on account of the late terrible fire there. Every effort is being made to push forward the work of providing the necessary accommodation. A system of locomotion is being arranged between New Westminster and Vancouver, which it is thought will provide all that is required. Fuller information will be supplied in the course of a day or two.

A P. E. ISLAND J. P.

INTERVIEWED BY A PATRIOT CORRESPONDENT

Overwork Brought on Neuralgia and Shattered Health Generally—Passed Many Sleepless Nights.

From the Charlottetown Patriot.

The Patriot's special correspondent "Mac." being in the eastern section of the island on business, heard many complimentary remarks concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which appear to be the favorite medicine in all parts of Canada. Among those who are very emphatic in the praise of this medicine is Neill McPhee, J. P., of Glencorrodale, and our corespondent determined to call upon him and ascertain from his own lips his views in the mater. Mr. McPhee was found at home, and as he is a very entertaining and intelligent gentlemen, our correspondent was soon "at home" too. When questioned about the benefits he was reported to have received from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, Mr. McPhee said: "About four years ago I got run down from overwork on the farm. As there is considerable timber land on our property, I thought I could go into making timber in addition to my farm work. The task, however, proved too heavy for my strength, and I soon began to break down. I contracted a severe cold, neuralgia followed, and fond myself in shattered health generally. I felt very much distressed and discouraged and spent many sleepless nights. I tried several very highly recommended medicines, but received no permanent benefit from any of them. As Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were so highly recommended through the press, I thought I would give them a fair trial. After using a few boxes I found they were having the desired effect and I began to find my wonted health and strength gradually returning. I kept on using the pills until I had regained my former vigor and had gained considerable in flesh as well. Now I consider myself a healthier man and feel as well as ever I did in my life. I can conscicntiously recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to any person suffering as I was. I have the utmost confidence in their curing properties."

Rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous head ache, nervous protration, and diseases depending upon humors in the blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc., all disappear before a fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They give a healthy glow to pale and sallow complexions. Sold by all dealers and post paid at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 by addressing the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. Do not be persuaded to take some substitute.

HOW TO STOP THE DRINK TRAFFIC

You can lead a horse to water,
But you cannot make it drink,
It is leading and not driving
That is wanted now I think.

You may pass a prohibition law,
And this is all you'll do;
Put scores of men inside the jail,
Men just as good as you.

Why make a drink of beer a crime,
Men buy just what they want;
To say that law will stop the drink
Is nothing else but cant.

For freedom is the Briton's boast,
Free to choose good or ill;
Unruly if you touch his beer,
I'm sure you'll find him still.

Has prayer and pleading lost its power
The human heart to reach;
Or is it faith that's wanting,
In those that pray and preach.

Convert a man from drinks desire,
He wont go near a bar;
In saying that he shall not drink,
You surely go too far.

—GEORGE WELLS.

YOU NEED THE BEST

The Diamond Dyes Color all Classes of Goods.

Diamond Dyes, as far as general usefulness is concerned, are far ahead of all the adulterated package and soap grease dyes now before the public. These crude package dyes and soap grease mixtures are very limited in their powers. 'Tis true, they give a semblance of color to thin and flimsy fabrics, but when tried on good dress materials and heavier goods such as flannels, worsteds, tweeds, and cloths, they are simply worthless.

The Diamond Dyes, owing to their greater powers of penetration, their perfect solidity and depth of shade, their purity and brilliancy, are adapted for all classes of goods from the thinnest gauze to the heaviest tweeds. This great range of work, possible only to the Diamond Dyes, is what has made them so popular all over the world.

If you would do your dyeing work in proper style, use Diamond Dyes. Avoid all imitation package and soap preparations. The Diamond Dyes are first and best for home use.

A Kentucky paper says 10 drinks of whiskey a day will keep away mosquitoes. It can also be warranted to bring on other insects and reptiles.

Russia is threatened with famine. The harvest in seven provinces has been a complete failure and the suffering and distress among the inhabitants is already very severe. Even the landed proprietors are asking for government aid, and as is usual in such cases government is moving very slowly. Meanwhile cattle and human beings are suffering from extreme want. The peasants are exhausted from lack of food and unless the promised supplies are speedily sent, the suffering among the peasantry will be terrible.

J. A. Bangs left for Fort Steele on a business trip.

Mr. Bulyea arrived from Dawson City at Regina on Saturday.

Lord and Lady Brassey passed through yesterday on the west train.

I. S. G. Van Wart returned from the north on Saturday, where he has been occupied in plebiscite work.

C. W. Peterson, recently appointed deputy commissioner of agriculture, came in on the east train this morning.

G. King, of the Hudson's Bay Co, who has been temporarily removed to Pincher Creek, is down with typhoid fever.

John Johnson, of Peterborough, Ontario, is visiting the city. He has come up to see the district and recruit his health.

Dr. McEachran, Dominion veterinary inspector, and managing director of the Walrond ranche, is expected to arrive in Calgary on Thursday.

E. Winn, of McCarthy & Stewart, has left to take up his residence in San Francisco, where there are greater openings than Calgary could produce.

The prairie chicken season opened on the 15th and closes on December 15th. No individual sportsman may kill more than 20 of these birds in any one day.

The North West Territorial Assembly did not prorogue on Saturday, owing to the arival of Mr. Bulyea. The adjournment will most likely take place today.

For a week we have had beautiful weather—days warm and bright, but the evenings are getting chilly and the days are drawing in, all which reminds us that the summer is all but over.

The Great West magazine for September has been received. It contains amongst a mass of very interesting matter an article on the Winnipeg Camera club, which is of a special interest. It is illustrated from photographs by members of the club.

Mrs.M.E.Hudson who had a serious loss by fire at Pine creek some three weeks since has received through Messrs Ellis & Grogan a check for the full amount of insurance claimed from the Union Fire Insurance Co. office, the claim having been sent in only nine days ago.

The many friends of James Ockley, of Fish Creek, will be sorry to hear that his son met with an accident of a serious nature, being yesterday kicked by a horse and having his arm and several ribs broken. Dr. Mackid was quickly in attendance and the sufferer is progressing favorably.

A last tribute of respect to the memory of Samuel Livingstone, a late prominent citizen of Calgary, and one of its first settlers, was paid by the Masons of the city on Sunday afternoon last. A descriptive account of the ceremony will be found in another column of this paper.

Last night's musical service at the Methodist church was attended by a crowded congregation. Mr. and Mrs. Bernhard Walther contributed excellent solos, Madame giving Sullivan's great sacred solo "The Lost Chord" and Mr. Walther playing two violin solos in keeping with the service, namely the National Hymn of Austria and the Cavatina of Raff. The choir sang two anthems. The congregational singing was very hearty in "Jerusalem the Golden" and in the other hymns sung during the service. Rev. Mr. Langford instead of a sermon spoke about 15 minutes on music, the Epworth League and other topics.

WEDNESDAY'S NEWS

Weather, dull, cloudy, cold.

W. N. Janes is in the city from Pine Lake.

The Jefferson County Union in its published account of the Wisconsin and Michigan editors trip through Canada finishes up an interesting account of their impressions of Calgary as follows: "The editors will remember Calgary as well as any city they visited. In the three stops we made there we formed many pleasant acquaintances. Among those who took espececial pains to make our stay enjoyable were Messrs. A. L. Sifton, Dr. Mackid, and Mr. J. J. Young the latter manager of The Daily Herald. The elegant Alberta hotel, where we secured three of the squarest meals on the trip, is held in affectionate rememberance."

THE LOST CHORD

(Contributed)

The following pathetic and beautiful incident is communicated to The Herald by a well known Calgary citizen, who vouches for its truth. He says: While listening to Madame Walther's delightful rendering of this song on Sunday evening last in the Methodist church a pathetic scene was brought vividly before my minds eye and memory took me back to the spring of '83. An American company of vocal artistes had sailed from New York to fill a musical engagement in Kingston, Jamaica, W.I. The leading vocalist, anxious to make a national hit, devoted his time during the voyage to composing lines for the 24th of May. Sitting on deck, and wholly engrossed in his work, he had neglected to take the needed precautions against the rays of the tropical sun, and he became the victim of brain fever, and was carried on the arrival of the vessel at Kingston, in an unconscious state to an hotel, where for days he lingered in a state of delirium. Every evening as the time for his usual appearance before the footlights drew near, his voice would be raised in song, and the listning crowds increased until at length ropes were placed across the street, those who had charge of the invalid fearing that the crowds might become noisy; but no warning was needed to the sympathetic listeners to keep silence.

Night after night the street was filled with silent listeners, eager to hear the sweet songs of the dying man. The fever had nearly burnt out the thread of life and the end was near, and at last the bulletin appeared, "Cannot last through the night." By 7 o'clock the street was crowded, all intent on listening and full of wonder as to whether they would hear once more the splendid voice they had learned to love. A brief delay, and then the singer thrilled out Jessie's Dream, followed after a short interval by the Pilgrim Father's, soon the word was whispered amongst the strangely affected crowd, "He is dead." Yet still they waited and through the open window there floated out to the deeply moved southerners:

"Seated one day at the organ
I was weary and ill at ease," and so on, you remember the well known song until the words,

"It may be that only in Heaven"

were reached and with a magnificent note on "Heaven" complete silence reigned. The singer was dead. The silver cord was loosed and the golden bowl was broken. None of the listeners to that dying singer will ever forgot the impression of his beautiful song on that moonlit night in a tropical land.

CALGARY OPERATIC SOCIETY

The annual general meeting of the Calgary Operatic society was held in the Alberta Music hall on Tuesday evening.

In the absence of the president, H. W. H. Knott was voted to the chair There were a large number of ladies and gentlemen present.

The following officers were appointed for the ensuing year:

Hon-President.. .. ..O. A. Critchley
President.. .. .. ..Crispin E. Smith
Treasurer.. .. .. .. .. ..J. B. Kelly
Secretary.. .. .. .. ..M. C. Bernard
Committee.. .. .. .. ..H.W.H.Knott
" .. .. .. .. ..D.S.Lloyd
" .. .. .. .. ..Jno.J.Young

A long discussion took place on the subject of a new opera and it was finally resolved that the committee report on the advisability of producing some opera at a general meeting to be held that day three weeks.

Mr. Knott spoke as to amalgamation of the orchestral society with the operatic society. After some discussion it was resolved to leave the matter to a future occasion.

After a vote of thanks had been passed to the retiring officers, the meeting adjourned.

COMING HOME TO ROOST

From The Free Lance.

We understand that several of our old Wetaskiwin standbys will be back soon to put in the winter amongst us. Many of us have tried to break loose from the Wetaskiwin habit, and have made expeditions into far countries for that purpose, but some indefinable impulse seems to guide our steps back again. There are few sharper thorns in the flesh than moving away from a locality in which one has dwelt happily for some years. This trial comes to most of us, sooner or later. Some of us probably have become dissatisfied with our surroundings, others skip out hastily, whilst others are run out of town. (We always got out hastily, usually returning, however, as soon as the storm had blown over). The breaking up of old moorings is full of sorrow, and the final singing of Auld Lang Syne at a farewell dinner by a lot of semi-intoxicated comrades always affects us to tears. Happily this grief does not endure very long as a general thing. Within a few months new ties are formed, new pleasures are found, and fresh multitudes of cheerful boozers are discovered who compensate for those left behind. This is the usual way in all other towns but Wetaskiwin. If, as we said, you have the Wetaskiwin habit, you will never be able to break completely away. You may succeed in getting away as far as Van Diemans, Honolulu, or the Dry Tortugas, but inside of a year or two you wil find yourself back—you know not how—flopping the bones over Jerry Boyce's bar and talking with Mr. William Schwan about his fine crops. Tom Shea, Camille Miquelon, Tom Moriarity and John Holseven are expected back this fall. Then it will feel like old times again.

Election Notice

To the Electors of East Calgary Electoral District:

As many of the electors have requested me to offer myself as a candidate for this district at the next election for the Legislative Assembly of the Territories, I have decided to accept. I have been here since the opening up of the country and am intimately connected with its principal industries. My aim will be to advance the interests of this district and the whole country and I respectfully request your votes and influence. Faithfully yours,

A. E. CROSS.

ELECTION CARD

To the Electors of the Electoral District of West Calgary.

At the solicitation of no inconsiderable number of the Electors of West Calgary, I have consented to become a candidate for your suffrages at the approaching general elections for the Legislative Assembly.

During the next term of the Legislature question of vital importance must arise, affecting for all time the interests and welfare of Alberta. Within the brief space of an election card it is impossible to adequately deal with, discuss or even refer to them. I may state that in my opinion the time has arrived, when the enterprise and energy of the electors of this district should be recognized by the establishing of Calgary as a capital city with all that such a step implies.

I will take an early opportunity of visiting the various sections of the Electoral District and by public meetings and personal interviews I trust to be able to discuss with you those questions of public interest which are likely to play an important part in determining the future history and development of this country.

It would be my aim, should I be elected as your representative, to promote and support by vigorous and energetic action progressive legislation conducing to the prosperity and well being of our district. I am, gentlemen,

Your obedient servant,
R. B. BENNETT.
